Golf courses need to cutback by 23 percent under new ordinance

By FRANK GEORGE

IN A 4-3 decision Oct. 15, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board approved Ordinance No. 50, which binds area golf courses to collectively reduce their water use by 23 percent from the 1987-88 base year.

The ordinance also allows the Greater Monterey Bay Golf Course Association to roll-over savings from previous years in the future,

'If the golf courses suffer, we all suffer. I don't mind having a brown lawn, if it keeps the people employed.'

— Jim Hughes

providing the group saves 27 percent or more at the water year's end.

The ruling includes a 27 percent non-mandatory water savings goal for the courses.

Director Karin Strasser Kauffman was the swing vote for the ordinance, which had been debated by the board for the past 10 months.

Directors Morris Fischer, Paul E. Davis and Jim Hughes previously championed a 20-percent mandatory reduction ordinance, while Chairman Dick Heuer and Directors Dale Hekhuis and Ken Long favored a 27-percent cutback.

Strasser Kauffman had suggested a 25-percent compromise at the Aug. 27 water board meeting, and that number was on the agenda Monday night. Hekhuis, Heuer and Long all stood behind that figure.

"What we got was 23 percent with semi-annual monitoring," Strasser Kauffman said. She said the heart of the ordinance is the 27-percent non-mandatory savings goal, which puts the courses under a higher standard of rationing.

"All the other provisions of (Ordinance No.) 50 are details," she said.

With the 2-percent decrease, the resorts will get roughly 60 acre feet more water per year. Their total collective allowance will be 1,986 acre feet.

The ordinance is scheduled to go into effect on Oct. 31. A water year begins Oct. 1 and ends Sept. 30 of the following year.

"I don't understand why you single out the golf courses, you might as well single out shoe stores," said Quail Lodge owner Ed Haber. Haber and others tried to convince the board to approve a 20-percent mandatory requirement for the golf courses.

Under rationing Ordinance No. 49, which was approved by the board about two years ago, all water users are required to achieve a 20-percent savings. Resort owners and representatives resented the fact that they might have been bound to a 25-percent cutback.

Carmel Residents Association (CRA) member Louis Ungaretti agrees the association shouldn't be singled out, but he doesn't think the ordinance is tough enough on the courses.

"The golf course fines would have a $50,000 dollar cap, but there's no cap to the residential fines (under Ordinance No. 49)," he said. "The sky's the limit. The CRA recommends all water district users be treated the same."

Pat Bernardi, co-chairperson of the Residents Water Committee, said Ordinance No. 50 "creates a special class and sets a dangerous precedent." She said if approved, her committee would apply for special considerations as well.

"If the golf courses suffer, we all suffer," said

Director Jim Hughes, referring to the contention that brown fairways discourage tourism and encourage unemployment.

"I don't mind having a brown lawn (while fairways and greens remain green), if it keeps the people employed," said Hughes, adding that some members of the board and the public have gotten into a "we" and "they" attitude.

A few people, including Todd Acheson of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, seemed to support the ordinance as it was written on the agenda. Acheson said his organization seriously questions the special considerations the golf courses will be given.

"We see it as counter-productive," Acheson said.

Quail Lodge's Lawson Little said the golf courses should be given special considerations.

"Like the American Indians, the golf courses were here before most of us," Little said, noting

'What we got was 23 percent with semi-annual monitoring. All the other provisions of (Ordinance No.) 50 are details.'

— Karin Strasser Kauffman

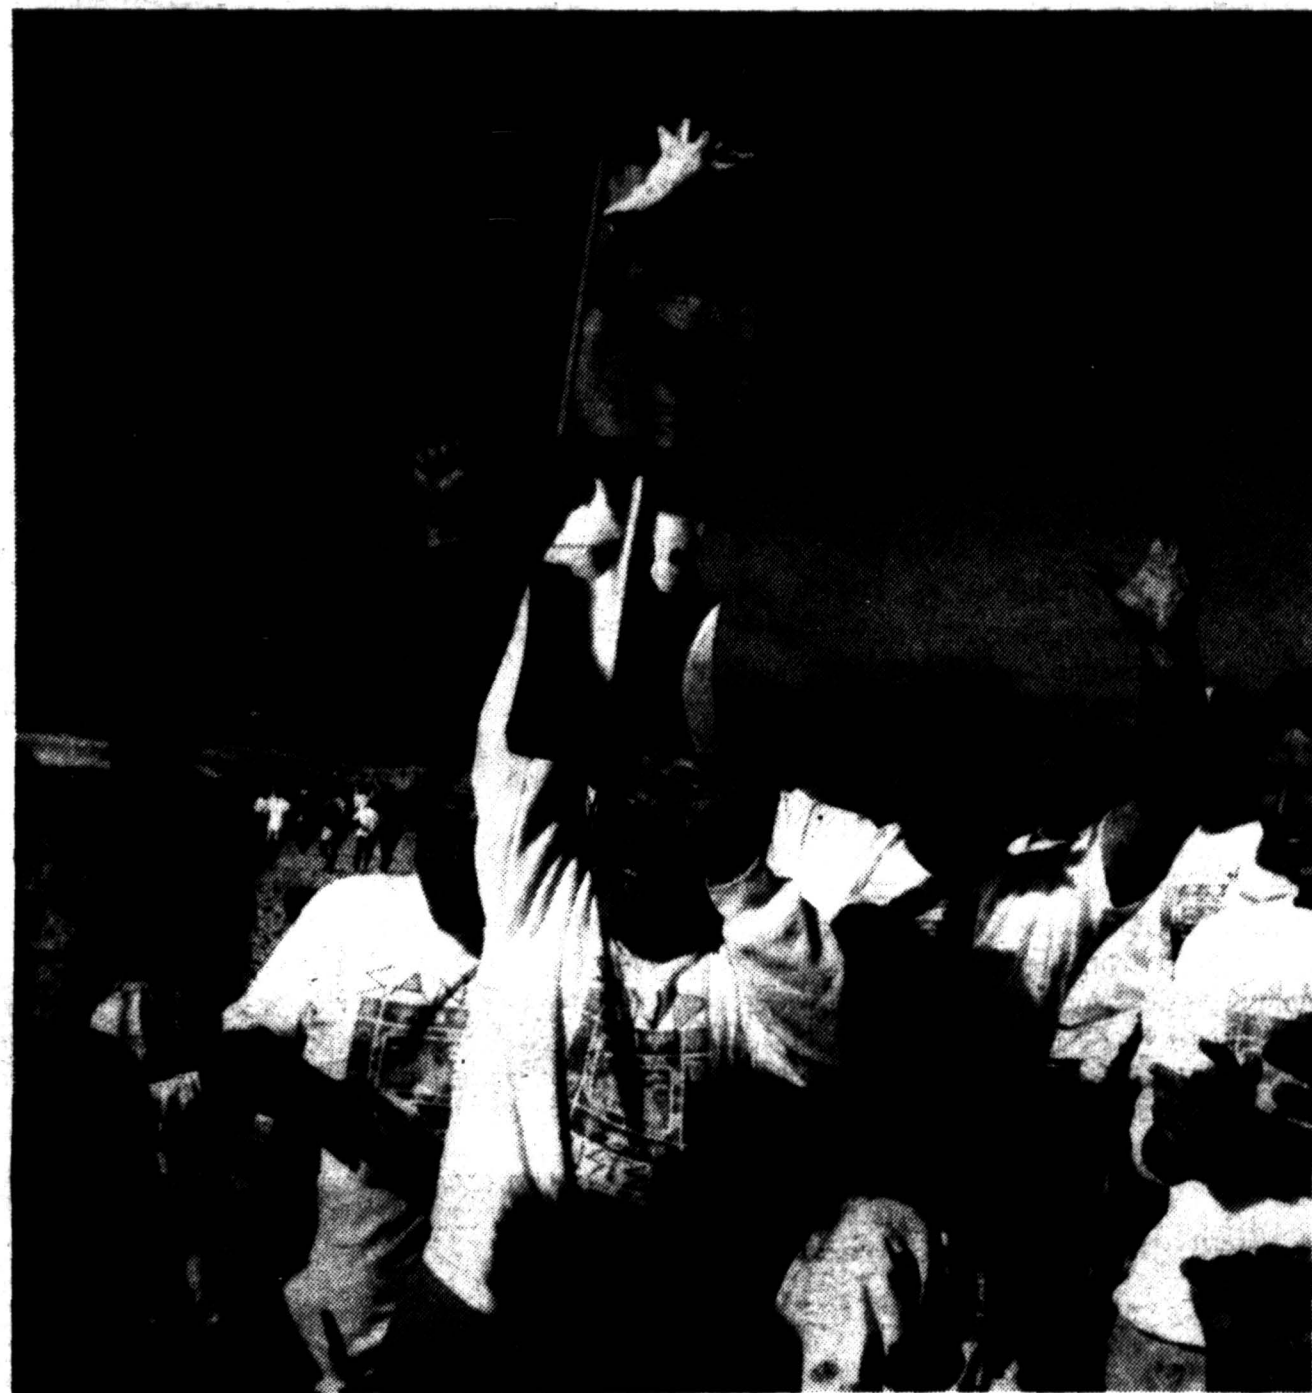

the first one on the peninsula was built in 1897.

On the other hand, John Logan of Carmel was one of the few who found the original 25 percent draft reasonable, particularly when coupled with its over-25 percent carry-over.

But he also said he wished he had such a privilege himself.

In the end, Little seemed pleased with the 23-percent mandatory, 27-percent carry-over decision. Little said the savings in jobs and water will result in a "win-win situation" for residents, the board and the association. He said the resorts will try their hardest to earn the roll-over, meaning they plan to achieve more than a 27-percent reduction next year.

"A lot of that has to do with Mother Nature being good to us," he said.

Sandbusters reign

MEMBERS OF The Sandbusters exult in winning the top award in The Great AIA San Castle Contest on Carmel Beach, the Golden Shovel Award, for their sand sculpture "For Less, For More." Tom Mangold holds the trophy aloft while team members Thom Akeman (that name sounds familiar), and Jim Gregg celebrate. Members of the group included Doug Howe, Marianne Mangold, Edie Ellis, Mark and Sylvia Hall, Don and Nina Wagner, Jim and Jan Gregg,

Craig Cabanas, Jim and Jeannie Schumann, Will and Julie Walmsley, Sarah DiMaggio, Andy Merrill, and Jose Rafael Ramos. Theme Award was won by Lawrence Berkeley Laboratories and RUMI, Sour Grapes by American Blue, and the Dramatic Award by "Sands of Time Eternal" by the Sons of the Beach, an actual wedding featuring Bob and Kellie Fletcher. ## Pavarotti to sing at RLS concert

By DAVID LELAND

SEVERAL MONTHS of speculation ended Wednesday when it was officially announced that world-class tenor Luciano Pavarotti would entertain music lovers during a Pebble Beach concert.

The concert is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday, March 17, 1991 on the football field at Robert Louis Stevenson School.

"This is a once-in-a-lifetime event," said Tibor Rudas, a Pebble Beach resident who manages Pavarotti's concert business. "All those who were guessing, guessed the right way."

Music at the concert will include arias from Verdi and Capuccini, plus several modern songs composed by Henry Mancini, Rudas said.

The 70-piece San Francisco Opera Symphony is tentatively scheduled to accompany Pavarotti.

Six thousand tickets go on sale Thursday, Oct. 18, for $52, $102 and $152. The majority of the recital's proceeds will benefit RLS, with a $2 service charge on each ticket helping Chartwell School in Seaside.

For further ticket information call 394-3468.

"It's an understatement to say that Robert Louis Stevenson is thrilled," said RLS Headmaster Joe Wandke, who added that a portion of the money would go toward the purchase of computer equipment.

Wandke added that RLS has 400 tickets that will be sold through that school, which will include several special events.

Wandke said a gala party for 200 people is scheduled for the Beach Club in Pebble Beach immediately following the concert.

Pavarotti will be in attendance and will likely sing, he said.

Tickets are $1,000 per person; $15,000 for corporate tables; and $30,000 to purchase the entire table where Pavarotti will be sitting.

For further information call 624-1257.

Rudas, speaking at a press conference at The Lodge in Pebble Beach, said that the RLS concert coincides with Pavarotti's 30th anniversary of entertaining opera lovers.

"We will have a heck of a celebration here," said Rudas, adding that he began working with Pavarotti eight years ago. "We became such good friends that we thought the (30-year) celebration should be at my home."

The weekend of the concert will also kick off a weeklong exhibition of Pavarotti's silkscreens, which are tentatively scheduled to be displayed at The Lodge in Pebble Beach.

Pavarotti will be in attendance to open the exhibition March 15, with the majority of the proceeds going to charities.

Recycling water

Dear Editor:

We have made great strides in California these last 10 years in recycling waste, aluminum, glass, paper, but little notice in these parts of successful recycling water projects. We have had lots of talk but little actual success.

The recent water recycling conference in Monterey, held Sept. 27-28 for some 300 statewide water reclamation enthusiasts, provided some exciting news. It may speed up resolving our central coast water supply problems. Two professional groups came together and formed a single group called WATEREUSE to foster water reuse progress.

I was impressed with the large numbers who agreed that recycling water is finally coming into its own in California, now that drinking costs have risen so dramatically. Some 10 years ago, I had gone to reclamation meetings sponsored by these groups and knew about the potential of reuse of water.

One of the highlights of the session was a speaker on marketing recycled water. One chart depicted the possible savings of water in California within 20 years could be 50 percent of all urban and agricultural uses by recycling water. Southern California participants especially can demonstrate tremendous strides to recycle both sewer water and storm drain water and golf course conversions.

This recycling momentum is taking the pressure off dwindling supplies of potable or drinking water. Aggressive recycled water use can help solve the peripheral canal and delta problems and ease the north-south water fights.

Maybe Monterey County can quickly get the message and pick up the marketing pitch to change our attitudes on recycling water.

The heart is crying

Dear Editor:

How can these real estate ladies throw stones at Bill Bates' cartoons when they sit in a glass house? Thank goodness somebody still has a sense of humor.

Also, for many who understand it, there are tears behind the bonsai. I am thankful to have lived here in beautiful Carmel for about 30 years, and when I see what the real estate business has done for this village, I am thankful that Bill Bates, with a good sense of humor, still can make one smile, even when for so many, the heart is crying.

Long live Bill and his humor.

Carmel karma?

Dear Editor:

What is all the negativity about a couple of clever cartoons by Bill Bates? Have we Americans lost our sense of humor or is it just Carmel karma?

I think with all the problems around the world and domestically, we need a chuckle or two.

Bates is one of the nation's top cartoonists and Carmel should be honored to have had him settle here to bring us cheer in these "dull" times.

Keep it up, Bill, we love you!

In good taste

Dear Editor:

We feel that the Bill Bates' cartoon of Oct. 4 in the Carmel Pine Cone in very good appropriate feelings for some of us who have lived on this wonderful peninsula for over 50 years.

We feel that the Pine Cone did execute good judgment in publishing this cartoon. Not all of us love what is being done to our wonderful peninsula! Real estate brokers should feel as some of us do. Want to debate?

Cosmopolitan cartoonist

Dear Editor:

In reference to the Oct. 11 Carmel Pine Cone letter on "Poor taste," I offer my two cents:

The Japanese bought it, they own it, and when they speak of it, it comes out, "Rodge."

Bill Bates is too cosmopolitan to be accused of using poor taste. His delicious sense of humor makes us smile, at the very least, and sometimes shriek with laughter.

Press on, Billy.

(Editor's Note: I hope that's the last word on the Bill Bates cartoon of Oct. 4 — although I doubt it, nothing like a controversy to get people to write. For what it's worth, I personally didn't find the cartoon objectionable, and I'm half Japanese. Want to debate me? Give it a rest.)

Rural delivery

Dear Editor:

Oh! for a return to the earlier days of the Pony Express, when prompt mail delivery was a requirement. Not true anymore.

The United States Postal Service has fallen into a state of degradation as a monopolistic empire that is only controlled internally. As a private enterprise they would have had to declare bankruptcy several years ago. Now they are only several million dollars in debt and want to increase the postal rate from 25 cents to 30 cents. That is a 20-per-cent increase, about the same as our national deficit goes up each year.

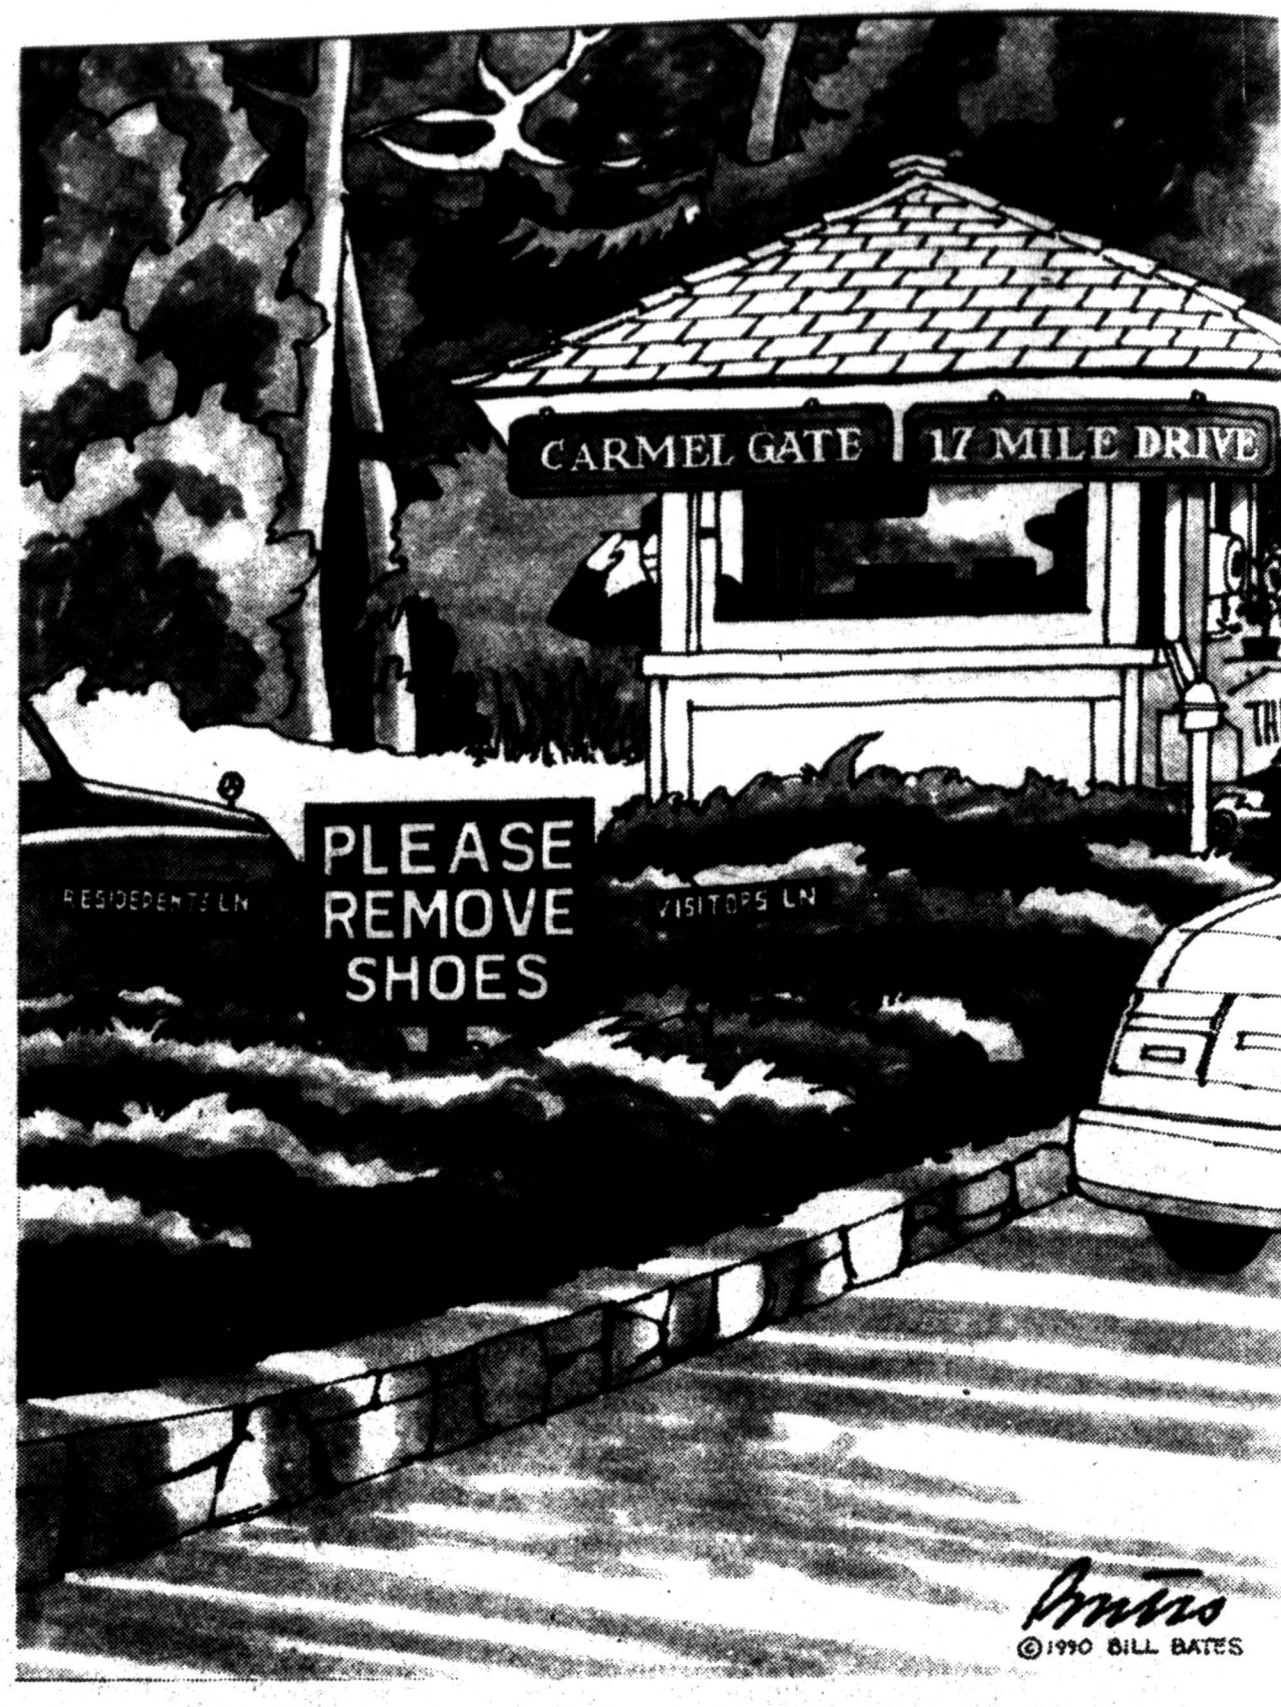

There are several reasons for this inefficient operation.

(1.) Postal Service employees are overpaid for the service performed.

(2.) Once they get tenure a life of financial security is insured and not even a stick of dynamite could move them from their secure positions.

(3.) The Postal Service employees protect their own without regard to their inefficiency. We in Carmel Valley receive our mail by a rural carrier. When I complained about the service of a lady that was a negligent delivery carrier, I received all kinds of flak.

BATES

The following quote is from the office of James H. Aanenson, general manager/postmaster, San Jose Division. "Office delivery records reflect that the Rural Carrier Associate has indeed improved her delivery time since our last correspondence. During a five-week period, she completed the route by 2:15 p.m. daily, with the exception of a few days, when mail volume was unusually high. The Rural Carrier Associate's most recent performance evaluation was made on by her immediate supervisor on July 31, 1989. She received a good evaluation which indicated that she was meeting or exceeding all requirements of the job. We evaluate our employees on a routine basis to ensure that they are performing all aspects of their job satisfactorily."

This evaluation was made by supervisor one Ms. Chapell at the Carmel Post Office and her integrity will have to be left to a decision by her bosses. I can get an affidavit from several neighbors that the delivery lady has never delivered mail before 3 p.m. When I have called the Carmel Post Office to inquire about a time of delivery, they say "Oh! she did not come in until 11 a.m. or she left at 1 p.m., she will be there before dark."

(4.) This letter may have been written in vain, but I hope our new Postmaster at the Carmel Post Office will assert his influence and make some changes. I think it is time we postal patrons stand up for our rights.

James Bell

Correction

IN THE Oct. 11 issue of the Pine Cone, Beatrice B. Schoenwisner's letter to the editor, "Public speaking," mistakenly uses the word "concerts" rather than "contests."

The error occurred in the sentence: "Club meetings and contests, once or twice a month, are devices that stimulate thought organization for public speaking."

We sincerely regret the error.

Clarification

IN OUR Oct. 4 issue, The Carmel Pine Cone erroneously stated the permit for former Mayor Clint Eastwood's San Carlos Street building had been denied by a past planning commission, leading to Eastwood's entry into the 1986 mayor's race.

The building was actually narrowly approved by the commission on Feb. 22, 1984, but then Carmel City Councilmembers David Maradei and Helen Arnold filed an appeal to the full council to overturn the approval.

The commission's approval was subsequently overturned by the council, an act that helped to prompt Eastwood into running. The city and Eastwood eventually worked out their differences, until this year.

Planners OK design concept for condo project

By FRANK GEORGE

AT A lengthy and eventful meeting Oct. 10, the Carmel Planning Commission approved a design concept for a condominium project on Mission Street, and sent a Junipero Street project back to the drafting tables.

A "softened" design and some attractive roof gardens were enough to win over four of the seven commissioners for Cedric Choi's Mission

'It's a new planning commission. I feel they're just getting to know each other.'

— Lee Hill

Street project. Commissioners Steven Poohar and Barbara Lysle dissented on the Choi decision, while Chairman Carla Ramsey stepped down due to a conflict of interest.

Several members of the public addressed the commission on the project, and all were happy with the design.

Nevertheless, Lysle said she had a problem with seeing "three big buildings in a row" at the site. She was glad the applicant had set them further back from the street than he had originally intended, but she wanted the setback increased even more.

Poohar said he still wasn't satisfied with the general layout of the project.

In making the motion for approval, which was seconded by Commissioner Brian Congleton, Commissioner Lindsay Hanna said Choi and his architect John Thodos had come "a long way" with the design.

In other business, the commission unanimously opted to continue local realtor Lee Hill's Junipero Avenue project to their Nov. 28 meeting. The plan calls for two condominiums and a duplex on the 7,100-square-foot parcel.

Commissioner John Kennedy said the new buildings would not conform to General Plan guidelines for the area, which call for affordable housing in that section of town. Hanna concurred with Kennedy, saying the applicant is making a significant change on Junipero rather than putting apartments or resident-serving commercial buildings on the lot.

Nevertheless, Hill remains optimistic about the eventual approval of his project. He said he is going to confer with his architect, and together they'll try to come up with a workable sketch for the commission.

"It's a new planning commission," he said, referring to commissioners Barbara Lysle, Congleton and Hanna, who have sat on the commission for less than a year. "I feel they're just getting to know each other."

Hill also said he thought two of the buildings were "very suitable" for the site.

Ramsey later said that, out of fairness to the applicant, the commission chose not to ask him to invest in costly models of the proposed buildings or height poles at this early stage in the process. Commissioners normally request these visual aids, but in this case they would be a wasted investment, since the commission usually rejects the initial designs.

"This is a large project," she said. "We want to make sure it fits into the character of Carmel rather than standing out as a blight."

Also on the agenda, the commission continued action on a mural and other exterior improvements at a new Mexican restaurant on San Carlos Street.

Steve Witfill wants to have a desert scene mural painted on a courtyard wall neighboring Cactus Jack's, which he plans to open in the first week of November. Witfill also wants to add a picture window, outdoor heaters, and outdoor lighting to the courtyard.

Witfill later said the commission must determine if the building's previous occupants (also a Mexican restaurant), also used the patio as a dining area. He said he thinks they lit candles on the outdoor tables at nighttime rather than use electric lighting.

In other action, the commission unanimously approved a remodel design for a house once owned by writer Lincoln Steffens. At the Sept. 12 meeting, the commissioners had asked William and Susan Tabor to resubmit the design and decided the Tabors' plans were not bound by any historical ordinances, which may have forced them to keep it close to its original form.

The Tabors had to move the garage on the blueprints though, as the first garage draft called for the removal of a large Monterey pine.

Congleton's motion for approval of the project at last Wednesday's meeting requires the Tabors to delete access to the roof of the new flat roof-deck garage. Such roof-decks often encroach upon a neighbor's privacy, and thus are not allowed in Carmel.

The commission's annual meeting was also on Wednesday's agenda, and the commissioners re-elected Chairman Ramsey and Vice-Chairman Poohar to two more one-year terms.

The commissioners then reiterated their position on private meetings between commissioners and applicants.

The commission's policy is that commissioners

'This is a large project. We want to make sure it fits into the character of Carmel rather than standing out as a blight.'

— Carla Ramsey

cannot meet privately with applicants to discuss the applicant's project or plans prior to commission consideration.

"It has actually been written into procedural terms," said Ramsey. "The reason for that is to make certain the public's business is carried out in public."

Ramsey is pleased with her re-election. She said she is particularly interested in taking part in the implementation of the city's design guideline booklet, which the commission approved subject to city council review at their Sept. 12 meeting.

The council approved the booklet at its Oct. 2 meeting.

Supes require EIR for Stewart property housing plan

By DAVID LELAND

COUNTY SUPERVISORS this week made good on their week-old promise to require an environmental impact report for the Stewart property.

Voting 4-1 (with Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck dissenting), the board upheld an appeal lodged by Carmel Point resident Charles Chrietberg, who objected to a county Planning Commission decision allowing a home proposed by Morgan Gilman.

"The system works. All of Monterey County should be proud that the board took a tough stance," said Chrietberg, after the hearing. "Carmel Point is fortunate to have Karin Strasser Kauffman — she took the ball and ran with it."

Chrietberg's counsel was also pleased with the decision. "We're pleased that after many years of waiting, the board has taken the steps necessary to ensure the environmental protection of the point and to permit development that is reasonable and consistent with significant environmental concerns," said Michael Albov, an attorney representing Chrietberg.

The subjects of erosion, traffic and visual concerns will be addressed in the EIR, according to 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman.

Chrietberg had maintained throughout the hearing that Gilman's plans for a 1,688-square-foot home were appropriate for the area.

Gilman, however, is a part of Bay Area-based Scenic Associates, a group of separate partners planning to build a total of eight homes on the 39,000-square-foot site.

Until several years ago, the now-vacant lot, bordered by Scenic Road and Ocean View and Isabella avenues, served as home to the stately Stewart mansion.

Around the turn of the century, the parcel was legally divided into nine separate lots. Lot lines were adjusted by the county in 1985 to the include the current eight sites.

Chrietberg and a group of Carmel Point residents said they believed it was irresponsible to allow any building on the property without addressing the possible cumulative impacts of building eight homes.

The EIR process will take at least six months and cost about $11,000, according to Bob Slimmon, planning and building director.

Shipnuck said she objected to the motion because she believed it was punitive for Gilman's plans to be delayed while the EIR is written.

The board did, however, refrain from requiring Gilman to help pay for the EIR. Instead, the seven remaining partners will reimburse the county for funding the study.

After the brief hearing, Gilman was hardly mollified by the board's decision allowing him to bypass the normal one-year waiting period for refiling an application that follows the loss of an appeal.

"I have to live with it," he said. "But I'm not happy with it, obviously. I don't think that there was any evidence to support the need for an EIR."

At an earlier hearing, Albov scored with the board when he challenged them on the idea that if this were a new, eight-lot subdivision, an EIR would surely be required.

'I have to live with it, but I'm not happy with it, obviously. I don't think that there was any evidence to support the need for an EIR.'

— Morgan Gilman

Upon full buildout, eight homes would generate about 80 traffic trips daily, according to a county report.

Carmel man sentenced in battery incident

By FRANK GEORGE

CARMEL DEVELOPER Doyle Moses entered a no-contest plea Oct. 12 and was sentenced to two years probation and five days in jail for a Sept. 5 battery charge involving Carmel City Forester Gary Kelly.

Monterey County Municipal Court Judge Michael S. Fields also handed Moses a $500 fine

'He did it just to settle the case and put it behind him. It's cheaper than fighting it.'

— Richard Rosen

— Doyle Moses' attorney

and assigned him to an assaultive behavior class, Monterey County Deputy District Attorney Jan Lindberg said.

Moses' attorney, Richard Rosen of Pacific Grove, emphatically said the no-contest plea was not an admission of guilt.

"He did it just to settle the case and put it behind him," said Rosen. "It's cheaper than fighting it."

Rosen said Moses will work off the jail time by doing 30 hours of community service work.

Kelly, who did not attend the pre-trial hearing, was relieved by the decision, calling it "a satisfactory resolution."

Moses could not be reached for comment.

The Sept. 5 incident occurred during an argument over a planter strip that sits on public property in front of Moses' Fourth Avenue home. On Aug. 7, the Carmel City Council had granted him a permit to landscape the strip, subject to Kelly's specifications.

On the day of the incident, Kelly had stopped by the site to check on Moses' progress. He said the homeowner had not prepared a new plan incorporating native drought-tolerant plants and the removal of half the large rocks as had been suggested.

Both Kelly and Moses have accounts of the subsequent incident listed in a Sept. 5 police report filed by Carmel Police Det. Sgt. Pete Poitras.

Moses, who is undergoing chiropractic treatment for a bad back, said Kelly became angry, tightly clutched his neck and threatened him before the property owner could push him away.

Kelly said he never touched Moses, but the developer tried to kick him in the groin prior to punching him in the face. Kelly was not injured by the blow, but he did experience some numbness in his right cheek.

An official from the Monterey County Municipal Court said assaultive behavior classes are not unlike traffic school. Instructors there teach people how to control their temper, the official said.

The $40 class is often taught at Salinas High School. Rosen said he thinks his client is scheduled to attend a one-day assaultive behavior class in December.

On Oct. 2, the city council had rescinded the encroachment permit because it felt Moses had not met the permit's conditions. If the homeowner does not remove the rocks, plants and dirt from the strip by Nov. 2, forestry department workers will remove them at his expense.

Moses said he plans to do the removing himself.

New emergency vehicle beefs up Red Cross capabilities

By FRANK GEORGE

THE CARMEL-By-The-Sea chapter of the American Red Cross now has a $35,000 response to local disasters.

This new answer to floods, earthquakes and the like comes in the form of a shiny red and white emergency response vehicle (ERV) donated by Pacific Telesis. The Carmel chapter received the van on Aug. 18 after volunteer Ron Gift drove it home from South Bend, Ind.

Two volunteers can swiftly dish out hot meals to about 400 hundred people from the rolling kitchen. Chapter Manager Lynnette Balesteri said volunteers already served coffee, muffins and sodas from it to firefighters and highway patrolmen during the recent fire in Pebble Beach.

The ERV is parked at Carmel Middle School corporate yard. Balesteri said they had it stocked and ready to go within an hour after receiving the call from firefighters that Monday.

The box-like truck, consisting of a Ford chassis and custom-built Utilmaster Corp. body and powered by 5.8-liter V-8 engine with a 400-mile range, is 20 feet wide, 10 feet high and 20 feet long. The work area contains nine 10-gallon hot and cold food containers and 10 5-gallon liquid holders.

The work area also houses a 4-horsepower generator used for powering appliances outside the vehicle. Exterior floodlights on the van are capable of illuminating a 150-square-foot area, and with its advanced radio system, the vehicle can quickly become a communications center, office, or supply van.

Gift shows new volunteers how to operate the ERV at special one-hour training sessions held every Saturday. He himself had two days of intense ERV training while in Indiana. Balesteri said volunteers must have a standard first-aid certificate to even drive the vehicle.

Gift said the Red Cross stocks the ERV with such food items as stews or lasagne before going to a disaster site. They get coffee and juices from storage and buy the rest fresh from the supermarket.

After running out of food at the site, the truck is replenished by a Red Cross supply runner van.

In the event of a crisis, Balesteri and her staff get out their ERV driver file and start calling the names on the list until they can round up a full crew.

The ERV is one of four vehicles acquired out of a $1 million disaster grant from Pacific Telesis. One is located in Santa Cruz, another is in Salinas, and a third is in San Benito County. Balesteri said all four are for use in the tri-county area.

The ERV is not a replacement for the chapter's three ambulances (in Carmel, Carmel Valley and Big Sur), which are all funded by the chapter, one of which is housed at the Carmel Fire Department and operated by fire department personnel.

SPECTATORS VIEWED the Carmel Red Cross's new emergency response vehicle, also referred to as an ERV. The van's purpose is to act as an operations station and to carry enough food to feed 400 people in the event of a disaster. (Frank George photo.)

Carmel welcomes Heron legacy with open arms

BY SHARON LAWRENCE

TWO WELCOMING, beautifully organized and appointed rooms, with fine wood paneling, comfortable chairs, plus an adjacent vault, comprise a storehouse of treasures detailing Carmel's illustrious history, traditions, art and culture — the Local History department of Harrison Memorial Library's Park Branch.

And never were the town residents more proud of that history than last Friday night when a large, buoyant crowd gathered at a reception to view some of the books, letters, posters and photographs amassed by the late Herbert Heron,

'More than just a job, I think of it as a privilege to be part of a small town with a world-wide reputation and a wonderful heritage.'

— Linda Coppens

dedicated patron of the arts, founder of the Forest Theater and a former mayor of Carmel.

"Isn't this wonderful!" and "Aren't we lucky?" were the two comments most frequently heard during the evening as guests and library patrons examined the Heron rarities and also savored the meticulously planned, imaginative exhibition in the foyer spotlighting those two major "Bohemian" writers, George Sterling and Mary Austin.

Opened in 1989, HML's Local History department was many years in the birthing stage.

"Mrs. Clara Nixon had left the library a wonderful collection of photographs, her unpublished manuscripts on the history of Carmel as well as her voluminous research," explains department head and archivist, Dr. Linda Miles Coppens. "And there were important photographs donated by Louis Josselyn, L.S. Slevin and, of course, Edward Weston and Ansel Adams. The library did not have an archivist and volunteers worked on the Local History files and did a very, very nice job.

"The materials were housed in the reference department at the main library which meant there was not enough room to properly organize or care for or display the artifacts. And there were many other collections scattered around the city, crying to be cataloged.

"Margaret Pelikan, our library director, was deeply concerned about this. She took special training and attended photographic workshops and initiated putting the photos in acid-free file folders and getting copy prints made."

Coppens became HML's first archivist in the spring of 1988 and when Park Branch opened in 1989 the genuine need for a specialized local history department was validated by the steady stream of residents, young people, researchers, writers, scholars and out-of-town visitors seeking knowledge of Carmel's past.

"Writers and scholars come to study the Robinson Jeffers material," Coppens says. "Recently, we had visitors from England whose mother had acted at the Golden Bough Theater in the '20s, and they greatly enjoyed the Edward Kuster collection. Others want to find out more about Lincoln Steffens or Harry Leon Wilson or Sinclair Lewis. Our resources offer a very special kind of education. We have a lot of high school students who come in to write reports on Carmel's past. Last month, there was one little 11-year-old who was writing a paper on a child of the '20s.

Back issues of the Carmel Pine Cone, Carmel Cymbal, short-lived periodicals like The Spectator and The Villager are all on microfilm and have proven to be valuable, frequently used sources.

For Coppens, who previously was curator of the Great Plains Museum in Oklahoma and then executive director and archivist at the Carl Cherry Foundation, it is a challenging position.

"It's a 60-hour-a-week preoccupation," she smilingly says. "More than just a job. I think of it as a privilege to be part of a small town with a world-wide reputation and a wonderful heritage."

She says she feels "pleased and grateful to the residents who contribute old photographs and letters because they might be important." The archivist adds, "We never know what discoveries the day might bring."

In keeping with the library's desire to fully serve the community and in view of the growing interest in Carmel's past, next on the agenda of the Local History department is a monthly series of programs.

"They will be in the afternoon and devoted to topics and people who have been and are important to Carmel," Coppens concludes, "Both educational and entertaining!"

Library foundation working hard to fulfill long-term objectives

"I cannot live without books"

— Thomas Jefferson

THE BOARD members of the recently formed Carmel Public Library Foundation are in hearty agreement with Jefferson as they act to fulfill a long-term set of objectives to safeguard and enhance Harrison Memorial Library.

"Work" is definitely the operative word for Jack Billwiller, president; Joseph M. Chaffers, vice president; Philo K. Holland, secretary; J. Randolph Elliott, treasurer; and John H. Hicks, Margaret Christensen, Cecil Wahle and Lamont Wiltsee. Each of them are contributing their time on a weekly, even daily, basis, as well as making individual financial donations to the foundation.

"The foundation came about through the concerns of the library board of trustees," Jack Billwiller explains, "as we recognize that we could not depend on state or county funding. Joseph Chaffers and Merryl Cottrell agreed to investigate the various options and seek a qualified fund-raising consultant, whom they found in Maria Gitin.

"The foundation was established and plans for The Book Program and The Endowment Fund were set in motion. Donations from individuals and local trusts have already been received, and we certainly seek and appreciate the support of the public to help us build momentum in our efforts."

The purpose of the Carmel Public Library Foundation is to permanently fund the portion of Harrison Memorial Library's budget not paid for by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, in order to assure that it can continue to provide the materials and services the public has come to expect. Included in the operating budget to be funded are books, subscriptions, reference works, library materials and programs for the public to enjoy, free of charge.

The fund-raising program is divided into three areas: The Book Program, The Endowment Fund and Foundation Operating Fund. All contributions are tax-deductible to the full extent of the law.

BOOK PROGRAM - ANNUAL FUND

Contributions to the Book Program will be spent within the next year on the purchase of books and equipment for the library.

ENDOWMENT FUND

For those who wish to make a larger gift, perhaps to honor family members or a cherished individual, there are meaningful opportunities to name collections, rooms, the Local History department and the library's Park Branch through the fund. Gifts to the endowment will be invested and interest only spent.

FOUNDATION OPERATING FUND

CPLF is a professionally staffed organization housed in Park Branch. First-year expenses include office equipment and public relations materials. Unrestricted contributions to cover these costs are sought.

For further information on gifts to Harrison Memorial Library, Maria Gitin may be contacted at the CPLF office at Park Branch. Telephone 624-2811.

Owners plan to preserve Rancho San Carlos' character

By SUSAN BECK

RANCHO SAN Carlos is approaching a new era, and a new life for generations to come.
"My hope is to have my grandchildren come here 100 years from now without it looking much different," said Thomas Gray, a managing partner of Pacific Union Co., which owns Rancho San Carlos.

Gray spoke about future plans for the ranch's new era during a luncheon Oct. 11 in the San Carlos estate's mansion gardens. The occasion was sponsored by the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce, and more than 50 members listened as the Pacific Union partner dispelled rumors and answered anticipated questions.

"We have no vision of being a major city or incorporated area of Monterey. Our plan is to preserve this wonderful piece of property in its integrity," said Gray.

The most challenging part of the project, said Gray, will be the cultural management of preserving the ranch's 20,000 acres while providing increased access to the surrounding communities.

In February 1990 Pacific Union Co. bought Rancho San Carlos from the Oppenheimer family. The Oppenheimers were in the fruit and vegetable business and had owned the property for the past 50 years.

Preservation of the land's integrity, while fulfilling the dreams and aspirations of the new owners, necessitates understanding the overwhelming nature of the property, said Gray.

"Rancho San Carlos is seductive, you don't want to go anywhere else. This land is an heirloom of California, and as stewards of this ranch we must manage it in totality together with the culture that cares about it," said Gray.

Understanding the nature of Rancho San Carlos will probably take about a year to accomplish, Gray said. The Pacific Union Co. has hired experts to study the ecological and archeological aspects of the ranch with the idea that the results will tell the developers the best place to build, he said.

There will be more preservation than development and the new owners are considering a small low-density housing project on about 200 or 300 acres of the 20,000-acre property.

"At most, that's 10 percent of the housing that exists in Pebble Beach on four times the land mass to be built over a very long period of time," said Gray.

Concerning the cost of the future homes on the ranch, Gray said that Pacific Union Co. has been actively looking for something comparable to its unique situation as far as real estate.

The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is seeking applicants to serve on the newly created "Landlord/Tenant Committee". The purpose of the Committee is to develop dialogue among landlords, tenants, and the City to implement provisions of the General Plan that encourage resident-serving businesses and the superior quality of commercial services for residents and visitors.

The goal of the Committee is to serve as a form to encourage dialogue among landlords, tenants and the City and to develop a written report to implement the policies of the General Plan. The report will be submitted to the City Council in June 1991.

Membership on the Committee shall consist of a variety of tenants, property owners, and/or property managers. Two members shall be appointed by each member of the City Council. One Planning Commissioner and one member of the City Council shall also serve on the Committee, for a total of 12 Committee members.

In order to qualify to serve on the Committee, a person must be a landlord or tenant of commercial property in the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea; or a real estate broker or property manager; or a banking professional.

Applications are available at Carmel-by-the-Sea City Hall located on the east side of Monte Verde Street between Ocean and Seventh Avenues between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. To request an application by mail, please call 624-2781. Copies of the Charter of the Committee are also available. The deadline for applications to be received at City Hall is 5:00 p.m., Friday, 26 October.

THOMAS GRAY, a managing partner of the Pacific Union Co., owners of Ranch San Carlos Ranch, told a Carmel Valley chamber group that driving along the nine-mile driveway to the ranch mansion gave him the sensation of being "transported back in history in a matter of moments."

Ranch character won't be changed

The cost is an unknown factor. "Our marketing stage is embryonic. They will be worth what they are worth when we are finished. Whatever the market will bear, as much as they are willing to pay," said Gray.

Pacific Union Co. is also collecting data on the ranch's available water resources and possible future traffic problems, especially in the Carmel Valley area.

"If we have a continued period of drought, it will be necessary for us to utilize the water resources without a detrimental effect on Carmel Valley.

"The traffic problem is in the hands of the valley community," said Gray, "however, we want to be productive participants in the process of Carmel Valley Road or the Hatton Canyon Freeway," said Gray.

In addition, he said Pacific Union will look at all possible mitigation with regards to the ranch.

Along with a low-density housing project, there is talk about convenience services such as an old-fashioned country store and post office. Also, Gray said that he would like to have some kind of guest accommodations.

"More in the style of a lodge theme, focused on the ranching history. The destination would be a retreat with nature walks and an educational component about the ecology," said Gray.

He added that a large facility would not be appropriate for Rancho San Carlos. There may be more than one lodge, but not like hotels in the traditional sense; there are enough of those on the peninsula already, said Gray.

The first development may be expected within the next three to five years, however, Gray said that to gather enough "empirical" evidence, "three years will be a miracle."

It is very important to have community input and Pacific Union Co. wants to reach the residents in the area for constructive discussion about their project, said Gray.

"Out here at the ranch, we say to each other that if you haven't heard a rumor about Rancho San Carlos by 4 p.m., you better start one."

In his closing comments to the chamber members, Gray said that he had given an honest account of Pacific Union's goals.

"This isn't a smokescreen. I don't have some secret map. We really don't know where are going to be building," said Gray.

Offshore fuel spill a warning against being too complacent

A LOCAL environmental group said Monday night's 150-gallon fuel spill off of Point Pinos should be considered "a wakeup call."

Don Hailley, project coordinator for the Santa Cruz-based Save Our Shores, held a press conference Wednesday morning at the point.

"The excellent way in which the spill has been handled should not lull us into thinking we are immune from a major disaster," Hailley said.

"We've spent a lot of time fighting drilling but the biggest threat is from (off-shore) traffic."

A 240-foot dredge sank 1.5 miles out from the point. It was being towed by another vessel when it began leaking.

The U.S. Coast Guard Wednesday morning characterized the spill as "small" and not requiring a cleanup undertaking.

"It is a light sheen, and the sunshine and wave action are taking care of it," said Lt. Robert Walters of the Coast Guard.

Hailley said his group is lobbying for a number of measures to prevent or mitigate potentially major disasters.

They include, for starters, establishing north- and southbound shipping "lanes," routing traffic outside the Monterey Bay Sanctuary boundaries once it is established, and more clean-up equipment in the area for faster clean-up response.

According to the Coast Guard, the size of the fuel slick has decreased in size since Tuesday. No fuel or oil, according to a press release, has been observed ashore. One dead "oiled" bird was found, however.

He brings expertise in biology to new job

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL MIDDLE School science teacher Craig Hohenberger expects to add both expertise and credibility to the Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary in his post as new executive director.

A zoologist with extensive experience in research conducted on Alaskan shorebirds, Hohenberger replaces out-going executive director Nell Newman.

"I bring more of a biology background," said Hohenberger, 36, who has taught eighth-grade science at the middle school for the past four years. "We (Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary) need more respect as far as the scientific community."

The non-profit organization is perhaps best known for its attempts to re-establish the bald eagle population in California.

On the Central Coast the last bald eagle was spotted in 1934. Observers speculate that unchecked hunting, pesticides and a rampant growth of population infringing on its habitat caused the birds to become endangered.

To that end, Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary's 250-acre site serves as home to eagles gathered in Vancouver Island, which are set free in the Big Sur wilderness each spring.

Hohenberger said he is set to begin fund-raising for a program to track the eagles after they leave the area.

"Then we can get an idea where the majority of our birds go," he said. "It's exciting. As new director you have new ideas and you want to try them out."

Newman, who will act as a fund-raiser for the Predatory Bird Research Group in Santa Cruz, gave Hohenberger high marks.

"I think he's very able for this job," said Newman, who served as executive director for last two years. "Especially in the area of education."

Indeed, Hohenberger plans to parlay his educational skills into his new job by offering his students field trips to the eagles' nesting area at Lake Nacimiento.

The Carmel Unified School District Board of Trustees allowed Hohenberger a 90-day trial period to see if his new job would adversely affect his teaching duties.

"I was stressed out the first few weeks, but it's really coming together now," said Hohenberger, who has set up shop in his Carmel Valley home. Hohenberger is available as executive director from 3 to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Hohenberger said that teaching children, while having its own rewards, only satisfies a part of his needs.

"Kids provide enthusiasm and curiosity in their innocence," he said. "But I need more intellectual stimulation."

His conscience also drove him forward in accepting the $1,100-a-month position.

"I need to do more for the environment," said the Walnut Creek native. "This is another way to affect the community."

In his new position, Hohenberger said he plans to beef up the quarterly newsletter, conduct monthly membership meetings and essentially tell those interested what is going on at the sanctuary.

"I want to bring more information back to the people," he said.

In one of his first fund-raising activities, Hohenberger said Ventana Vineyards is introducing a 1990 Limited Edition premium Chardonnay.

A wine tasting and auction introducing the limited release will take place from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 26, at GWS Galleries at The Barnyard Shopping center.

More than 20 percent of the proceeds will be contributed to the sanctuary.

Hohenberger suggested that people interested in volunteer work or membership contact the Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary at P.O. Box 894, Carmel Valley, Ca. 93924. Phone 626-8348.

Varsity Football

The Carmel High School varsity football team continued its winning ways last Friday (10/12) by defeating Gonzales High (21-14). The game was close (7-6 in Carmel's favor), throughout most of the evening. A Padre touchdown with less than three minutes remaining in the game brought the score to 14-6.

On the Padre kickoff, the entire stadium was surprised by a Gonzales return all the way back for a touchdown of their own. A successful two-point conversion play tied the score at 14-14 with just over two minutes to play. The Padres began their series of downs at their own 35-yard line. Behind the excellent blocking of Jon Shoemaker, Forest Aldrich, Loi Yu, Chris Cannon, and Dominic Petrocelli, Carmel marched downfield into Gonzales territory. Quarterback Mario Bertolucci completed two critical passes to Steve Watts and George Macaluso before throwing the game-winning touchdown pass to Tobin Leslie from 18 yards out.

The Padres showed excellent poise under pressure in this final drive to victory. The Padres remain undefeated after their first six games!

Carmel has a "bye" in the schedule so there is no game this weekend. This gives them time to gear up to take on league powerhouse Palma High next Friday (10/26) in a game at the Salinas Municipal Stadium which could determine the MTAL league championship.

JV Football

Last Friday (10/12) witnessed the battle of unbeaten MTAL teams as the Padres took on the Spartans of Gonzales High School on their own turf. Carmel came away on the small end of the score (21-12) after waging a hard-fought game against a fine Gonzales squad.

The Padres did find that they could move the ball more than expected by running the inside track. Behind the blocking of Donovan McComb, Jeff "Henderson" Saunders covered lots of ground with the ball. It was one of those games where the four or five pivotal plays went in favor of the opposing team.

Carmel can rest for a week from games before taking on Palma, whose junior varsity team lost to Gonzales (6-0) recently. It looks to be another good test of what these hard-working players can accomplish.

Fresh Football

The Carmel freshman team traveled to Gonzales last Friday (10/12) to take on the Spartans. The Padres lost (38-6) as Larry Brooks ran a quarterback reverse around the left end for a 45-yard touchdown. Injuries kept several starters sidelined during the second half. Outstanding players also included Shadd Madsen, Mike Fuson, Evi Plata, Cameron Barnes, and Joe Sheedy at linebacker. The freshmen take on Salinas High this Saturday at home beginning at 9:45 a.m.

Volleyball

Carmel's varsity volleyball team was defeated by Pacific Grove and Robert Louis Stevenson this past week in MTAL play. The losses slipped the Padres' league record to 1-6 as the first round of league games was completed. The team was led by the front row play of sophomore Holly Morse, the serving and all-around play of juniors Yvonne Leavitt and Amy Gray and the setting of Marni Marasco.

The frosh/soph team defeated both Pacific Grove and Stevenson, improving their league record 3-4. Turning in strong performances were setters Jennifer Forlizzo and Bridget Bohnen, and Holly Chiappe and Sara Swartz. Both squads travel to Salinas this week for matches against Alisal and Notre Dame.

Cross Country

Carmel hosted a four-way cross country with Gonzales, Palma, and Notre Dame meet last week at Garland Park. Showing his usual endurance, Padre harrier Will Allan ran to a first-place finish in the contest overall. Carmel won over Palma and Notre Dame, but lost to undefeated Gonzales (33-22).

Good performances were also noted from Karina Shannon and Heather Andrews who is having a great year in the longer cross country distances through her background is as a sprinter in the 300-meter hurdles. The Padres have two meets this week at Toro Park Thursday (10/18) and at Pacific Grove on Wednesday (10/24).

Girl's Swimming and Diving

Carmel continues its winning season with a victory (113-64) over visiting Santa Catalina last Wednesday (10/10) at the Carmel pool. The Padre team won eight of 12 events, including diving (Cindy Boyd - 149.50 points) and all three relays. Freshman Tish Satow won both of her individual events, the 200-yard freestyle and the 100-yard backstroke in CCS Championships qualifying times.

Other winners for Carmel included Erica Murray in the 200 individual medley and Erin Johnson for the 100 yard breast stroke. Carmel also won the junior varsity contest (129-60) with Erika Evans winning both the 100 individual medley and 100 backstroke events and freshman Brittany Struve winning both the 50 and 100-yard breast stroke races. Other JV winners were Erin Scholl in the 50-yard freestyle.

Carmel takes on perhaps its toughest opponents this week with visiting teams from Live Oak High on Tuesday (10/16) and Gilroy High on Thursday (10/18). Meets begin at 3:30 p.m.

WHAT NEXT - A SUBWAY?

By Junipero! Can't they leave us alone? We no sooner settle one proposition than along comes someone with another scheme to set us to controversy.

The latest is the suggestion of a post office inspector that Carmel houses be numbered so that carrier service be inaugurated.

Now the question is: Do we want a carrier service? We think no. In order that Carmel retain its position as being "different," such a revolutionary change in our community life should be frowned upon.

Going for the mail is an institution in Carmel. The afternoon trek to the post office is a social and commercial asset. It brings people up town to meet their friends and to purchase their supplies.

Anyway, if we must have carriers and we must be "different," why not have female carriers?

Young men of Carmel turned out willingly and cheerfully on Wednesday to register for the draft. People who wouldn't stand in line for the best show on earth took their turn in getting their names down for an equal chance with their fellows to serve their nation. It wasn't surprising this patriotic spirit, but it was inspiring. Americans ready to take up the challenge of totalitarian dictators.

DOGS RETAIN THEIR FREEDOM IN RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT

Dogs kept their right to roam free in the residential district after a Carmel City Council decision to table a proposed leash law ordinance.

The council voted unanimously to take no action on the issue at its meeting Monday, Oct. 13.

The issue, introduced at the council meeting Sept. 8, was continued because Councilman Frank Lloyd, who asked that the item be placed on the agenda, was absent.

Lloyd noted two recent cases when Carmel residents were attacked by loose dogs. One person was bitten twice in each leg, he said, which later became infected.

The dog, Lloyd said, was penned for 10 days and "put back out on the streets."

Clint Eastwood said he is eager to resume negotiations with the city over design plans for his much-maligned San Carlos Street retail and office complex, but he insists on specific council-recommended changes and some guarantee of approval before he invests more money in the proposed project.

Eastwood and the city council have escalated the verbal sparring for the past two weeks since the world-famous actor and Carmel resident decided to take his case to the public in a breakfast talk before the Carmel Business Association.

CVPOA courted by candidates for peninsula park district board

By SUSAN BECK

BOARD MEMBERS of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association were courted for support by three candidates vying for a park district board seat.

At the association's Oct. 10 meeting, incumbent Zad Leavy, Reid Woodward, and Cathleen Connell presented their reasons for becoming the next Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District Board member to represent Ward 5. (See related story in this issue.)

Connell dropped out of the race due to personal reasons shortly after the CVPOA meeting.

Leavy has represented Ward 5, which includes Pebble Beach, Carmel, Carmel Valley, Cachagua, Willow Creek, and Big Sur, for the past eight years.

He said that he was deeply involved and fully supports park district goals. His commitment is to protect open space such as beaches, recreational land, rural and urban parks, wilderness preserves for the public's enjoyment, now and in the future.

"I want the present direction to continue, and I want to implement the park district's continuance of leadership," said Leavy.

Acquisition of land for preservation such as Garland Park, Marina and Sand City sand dunes, and the Mill Creek Preserve, took a great deal of negotiation, and Leavy said he was proud to have been "in charge."

Woodward, a Carmel Valley resident for 17 years, said that the incumbent had done a lot of good things. However, Leavy's role as a founder and attorney for the Big Sur Land Trust, which is private, and as a park district board member representing the public may possibly create a conflict of interest in the future exchange of millions of dollars.

"I want a balance between land acquisition and management of that land. It seems that the park district is more interested in getting as much land as they can now, and then getting someone else to take care of it later," said Woodward.

Acting CVPOA President Rod Mills said that it was a rare opportunity to meet with the candidates. "We haven't seen anyone on the ballot for a long time."

CVPOA did not endorse a candidate for the park district position; they normally do not do so.

IN OTHER action Robert Greenwood reported on the business of water management.

Greenwood said that the conclusions of the "Drought Impact" section of the Water Allocation Environmental Impact Report have changed from the draft to the final report.

The biggest change is a reduction in the frequency of annual shortfalls predicted for all water supply options. An annual shortfall was defined as 3 acre feet in any one month. The district used weather records over the last 93 years to predict what shortfalls might occur in the future, said Greenwood.

Based on these predictions plus a slightly different management, such as a balance of redistribution of withdrawals from the various aquifers, for example, more from Seaside, less from Carmel Valley, many of these predicted shortfalls disappear.

Greenwood said that if the proposed allocation to the Cal-Am system, using a calculated 16,700 acre foot water supply figure which requires 10-percent rationing for 1 percent of the months based on the current population, there will still be a 498-acre-foot shortfall in 1991 according to Jim Cofer, manager of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

This is because the district has issued permits in the last two years for an additional 702 acre feet. The district's estimate of 1,929 acre feet of water conservation may be optimistic, said Greenwood.

Possible interim projects to increase the peninsula's water supply include retrofit plumbing, Seaside wells, rebate for low-flush toilets, Pebble Beach's reclamation project, and seawater desalination.

Greenwood said that desalination is probably unlikely because of the $20 million expense and legal obstacles.

The question of how much Cal-Am water goes through sewage plants for recycling and what percent is reclaimed was responded to by board member Patricia Bernardi.

Except for Carmel and Pebble Beach, all sewage is set up for funnelling to the Marina plant to water Salinas Valley farmland, and to irrigate Castroville fields. "We basically have forfeited our water. We have lost the bulk of wastewater in this community, and the ability to recoup it," said Bernardi.

THE NEXT topic for discussion was the board's "bone of contention," Saddle Mountain Ranch. Starting almost two years ago, the lower Carmel Valley Advisory Committee corresponded with Dale Ellis, county zoning administrator, about permit violations, to no avail, said Bernardi.

On Oct. 7, Saddle Mountain Ranch sponsored a Western Day event with live entertainment. The existing use permit allows for overnight camping, nothing more. There have been a number of live performances at the ranch, an activity which is well outside the bounds of the permit, said Bernardi.

Along with all of the other residents' complaints, such as the all night floodlights, and bulldozing on the weekends without permits, board member Fran Ferino said, "I've had it. I don't like to look at it, or hear about it."

CVPOA's complaints about Saddle Mountain have not been met with satisfaction, board members agreed. Mills said that the district attorney and 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman are either unable or unwilling to enforce restrictions on the ranch.

The board has not filed a formal complaint at this time, but is considering doing so based on future evaluation of the situation.

The next CVPOA meeting, set for Wednesday, Nov. 14, will be held at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel in the Fellowship Room on Paso Hondo just off of Carmel Valley Road. The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m.

THIS & THAT

By Florence Mason

Time for a change?

AN ANONYMOUS reader wants to know why there are five (5) ten-minute parking spaces in the vicinity of Mission and Eighth. He (now, that's sexist — he could be a she) points out that these spaces may benefit Knapp's Hardware, on the northwest corner, but that store is closed from noon Saturday to Sunday morning "when competition for parking is most intense." Also, the writer asserts, this prevents others — including churchgoers at the Scout House Sunday morning — from using the spaces for longer times.

Should the city's parking and traffic committee look into this? As Greg D'Ambrosio, Carmel's director of administrative services, told me: "The 10-minute spaces are approved on the basis of use, and use can change. Businesses change, demands change." Right on.

THE HIGHLAND Inn advertised recently for a front desk clerk-concierge who speaks Finnish, German and Swedish fluently and also has experience as a clerk or concierge. Curious, I asked Mara Cantor, human relations manager of the inn, if they had found someone meeting all those criteria. To tell the truth, I didn't think it was possible. But I underestimated local talent: They did! "We have someone who fits," Mara said. There is only one problem: This talented prospective employee isn't certified to work in the United States — yet. Mara said they are helping her work that out.

I found it interesting to contemplate the fact that there are enough tourists here from those countries to warrant such a search. But I shouldn't have been surprised. When I do my thing on the information desk at the Monterey Bay Aquarium, I pass out many tour scripts in German, Spanish, Japanese and French. The interesting thing is that they seem to come in bunches, even if the people requesting scripts in a particular language aren't connected — random chance has brought them all to the aquarium on the same day. Last week there was preponderance of requests for German scripts. People are delighted with that service supplied by the aquarium, and it's more fun for us than answering the most frequently asked question. (You know what that is: The second most frequently asked question is: "Where are the live whales?")

Have you seen the aquarium's new video tape of the wonders of the depths of the Monterey Bay canyon? Don't miss it! We're all looking forward to live broadcasts from some of the deep canyon expeditions, soon. And a new special exhibit about: sharks!

IT'S NEWS to me: there is a person called a "vitamitician." A local vitamin store is looking for one, so if you know anyone who is one of those, tell them about it. A background in nutrition is also requested.

JEAN AND Ken White hosted a reception for new cultural director Brian Donoghue earlier this month, and it was a delightful gathering of city officials, cultural commissioners and the like. Particularly enjoyable for me was the opportunity to meet spouses heard about but not yet met, and to see the Whites' wonderful Carmel home (it dates from 1910). Also present, and charming, was Brian's special friend from Boston, Beth Wilbur, who plans to move to this area in February. Carmel's cultural commissioners are good cooks, it would seem: they contributed their favorite hors d'oeuvres and the selection was both eclectic and tasty. Jean is president of that enterprising, effective group the Friends of Sunset Center, Ken White is of course one of our councilpersons.

MYLES WILLIAMS, newest member of the cultural commission, told me that gerontologists at Stanford have expressed interest in studying his Carmel Inn for Seniors. Myles said they are interested because of the number of residents there — 25 to 30, which he sees as an ideal number, and also because of the inn's philosophy of encouraging residents to do as much as they can for themselves. That might mean just continuing his or her practice of walking to the post office several times each week. It may seem like a small thing to those of us who still manage to stay somewhat active in our advanced years, but Myles suggests that it can be a symbol of independence as well as a good form of exercise.

ACQUIRING a pet is something like getting married: there are adjustments to be made, compromises, changes in one's lifestyle and habits. For instance, you are a night person and your new cat is a morning person. At 5 a.m. you are not at all interested in playing, getting up, going out, or even having breakfast. At my house, New Cat is beginning to understand the need for compromise, and so am I. But the specifics of the compromises have not yet been worked out.

Of course the essence of the relationship, as any expert will tell you, is good communication. Ay, there's the rub! (Under the chin, please.)

A PACIFIC Grove store is advertising "computer roll-top desks." An idea whose time should never have come?

THEN THERE is the tourist who was taking pictures of the entrance to a carry-out cuisine store in the Crossroads. He moved inside and continued taking pictures of the food counters. He explained, to no one in particular, "We spent all of our time here; this is all the food we've eaten!"

THE THIRD Steinbeck story to be filmed by a local company has just been completed and will be available to schools and colleges all over the country. It may also be the focus of several benefit gatherings; don't miss it if you get a chance to go!

This one is the story of Molly Morgan, a poignant account of one young woman's first job as a teacher. Not only is Mac and Ava, the production company, Monterey's own, but the cast features a number of outstanding local actors. The role of Molly is played by Teresa Ann McKillop, who starred several years ago in the local production of On Golden Pond. Also starring in that play and now featured in this new film is Louise Nachman, as the wife of Molly's employer. The latter is played by Rollie Dick, star of the recent Festival of Firsts winner, 411 Joseph. Also featured are Erica Clay, Betsy Andrade, Jefferey Heyer, Norman Stottmeister, Michael Jacobs, Dennis McIntyre, Chuck Thurman, Brian and Alisa Higginbotham, Anthony Andrade, Jason Montgomery, Ron Cohen, Kerry Hertjen, Wynn Mairs and Ivy Cates. It's a strong cast and if this production is anything like the first two in this series of Steinbeck stories, it is a fine one.

ONLY IN Carmel, again? A report of "loose llamas at Carmel Valley Road and Schulte" sent sheriff's deputies hurrying to the scene, and a round-up.

AND WHILE we are in Carmel Valley: for sale at a recent garage sale in that area was one boa constrictor. Price: $250.

STAY TUNED: my next "splendid senior" is a man who operates a powerful racket!

Well-coiffed

THERE'S NO cosmetic for beauty like happiness." — Lady Blessington.

Ignoring that wisdom, a thief, using pliers, broke into Charade Beauty Salon and stole a curious array of beauty supplies, including shampoos and conditioners, assorted brushes, and fluffy white towels.

Taking place Tuesday, Oct. 9 between 7:45 and 10 p.m., the suspect also took a Pioneer stereo system from the salon, located at Lincoln Street and Eighth Avenue. In order to deter further break-ins, the salon is installing a burglar alarm.

The police have no suspects. Well-coiffed individuals who have an interest in music may be questioned.

Doesn't purr like a kitten anymore

NO ONE can accuse Carmelites of not wanting tourists to stay longer than their trips may allow.

A visitor from Fair Oaks was prevented from departing our fair village Friday, Oct. 12, when he discovered that two of his custom chrome wheels with golden Mercedes emblems had been taken from his Mercedes Benz, leaving the car quite immobile.

The automobile was parked at San Antonio

Street between Santa Lucia Street and 13th Avenue when the tires, valued at $2,000, were stolen.

According to police, the tires have not been recovered...and apparently, neither has the tourist.

I saw it in the window and just couldn't resist

WALTER WHITE Fine Arts Gallery suffered a shoplifting Friday, Oct. 12, when someone made off with a hand-blown, lead crystal figurine with a flower motif.

The art object, measuring 7 inches tall with a 14-inch circumference, was taken unnoticed from the gallery located at San Carlos Avenue and 7th Street. Police have no suspects.

With a snip, snip here...

VANDALISM WAS done Wednesday, Oct. 10, in the underground parking garage located at San Carlos Street and 7th Avenue. Various wires were cut affecting telephone and fire alarm outlets, alerting police. However, no suspects or a motive have been found.

CPR classes being offered

CPR SAVES more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly throughout the year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

Can't buy me love

ACTORS AND actresses always capitalize on an opportunity. Auction Chairwoman Stephanie Snuggs and her creative Forest Theater Guild committee culminated a year-long art acquisition campaign and stole the show at the Carmel Art Auction, held at The Lodge.

It was a Halloween preview with a Parisian theme. Apache dancers, street-side artists and a mysterious woman in a black veil added color and excitement that some of the art seemed to lack. The Toulouse-Lautrec life-size figures created by local artist Sylvia Lovell-Cooper would have added interest and fun to the auction catalogue had they been listed, along with Stephanie Snuggs' one-of-a-kind hand-painted jacket from A La Carte in Carmel.

Photos were the big draw, but "Holland Canal" by Brett Weston, the high ticket item valued at $7,000, went to Forest "Sleepy" Wynn for less than half that figure. Cole Weston, fresh from an auction (no, not another auction!) in San Francisco, reassured everyone by saying, "One of dad's photos sold at Butterfield's last night for $20,000."

Stephanie Snuggs reported that this year's Carmel Art Auction raised three times more than last year's event and the painting donated by Martin Weekly, titled "Brigadoon," was won by Mrs. Harriet Holman-Barter.

TALLY HO

THE SANTA Catalina Wine Tasting and Auction committee went against the environmental grain and successfully played to the fall season with a hunt theme, both in the auction items and lavish buffet. Chef John Kasky of Bird of Paradise Catering obliged with a specially created menu of boar sausage, venison pate, duck sausage with morels and roast pheasant breast in mini-corn muffins that begged to be washed down with a robust Cabernet or Merlot. And the participating wineries obliged with hearty reds and buttery whites.

Chairman Joann Vaughn and her able committee bagged two spring lambs, a quail hunt, 20 pounds of wild rice and bocce ball lessons in addition to a hearty list of auction items that included an impressive array of wines, gourmet dinners and of course, the usual tee times and right-in-your-own-backyard getaway weekends.

AUCTION-MANIA

HOW MANY rounds of golf and nights for two at a local resort hotel can we stand? Are folks on the peninsula fast approaching auction burnout? If so, here are a few suggestions to sustain auction-mania into the '90s.

1. A short course in "Japanese for the Executive" from the Monterey Institute of International Studies.
2. For vicarious kicks, a ride on a CAMP chopper during a September marijuana raid in Los Padres National Forest.
3. An ice breaker, friendly roast or skit at your next fund-raiser or party by "Humorous Solutions," a local comedy team.
4. Orthodontia for one year for your oldest child, or yourself.
5. Catered brunch for four with the Pointless Sisters at Point Lobos.
6. A 1992 appointment with the Monterey County Planning Department.
7. Auction off a professional auctioneer to handle the hammer at your group's next auction.
8. A free water well drilled on the site of your choice.
9. Instead of two nights at (La Playa, Highlands, Spanish Bay, etc.), let your favorite resort hotel come to you — room service, housekeeping, breakfast in bed, the works.
10. An Oregon steelhead dinner for four at a restaurant of your choice overlooking the Carmel River.

SNEAK PREVIEW

DANISH WEEK started in Pebble Beach and has since moved on to Monterey, Carmel and Salinas.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Titherington of Pebble Beach welcomed

MARK POLLACCI and Bruce Lee, co-chairpersons, of the wine auction and Kathy Sparolini and Christy Pollacci, co-chairpersons of decorations committee enjoyed the fruits of their labor at the Santa Catalina Wine Tasting and Auction. Codie Winners of Ventana Vineyards is pouring.

MARTIN WEEKLY demonstrating his "not so plein air" technique at the Carmel Art Auction.

BOB BUSSINGER congratulating Wendy Brodie, who has announced that she will be the new chef and consultant for Rancho San Carlos.

members of the Monterey County Symphony Guild and Danish guests to an evening of music and food that could be described as "Son of Taste of Carmel." Fondue Chalet, Hyatt Hotel, Islands, La Playa, The Lodge at Pebble Beach, Miyuki Sushi, Monterey Plaza, Pine Inn, Ramada Inn, Sheraton Hotel, Silver Jones and Doug Robertson Catering all provided gourmet delights. It was a glorious evening.

PEEPS

WENDY BRODIE, Stonepine's executive chef, is leaving Noel's Chateau for Rancho San Carlos. An inside source at the ranch acknowledges Wendy has been retained as a consultant and chef for pre-marketing activities and special guest visits to the ranch. An incredible loss for Stonepine.

ARCHITECT JOHN Gamble, long-time friend of the Bruce Ariss family, reports that plans are complete for the new Ariss home. "Everyone remembers the original home as being Oriental in design, but I think that was imaginary. The new home definitely has an Oriental flavor."

All 5,000 square feet of it.

SANDRA KASKY, director of special events at Pebble Beach Co. tells us that Joyce Goldstein, owner and creator of Square One restaurant in San Francisco will be one of three guest chefs at the second Spanish Bay Beaujolais Nouveau Festival. The other two, Nancy Silverton from Campanile Restaurant and La Brea Bakery

A FOCAL point at the Carmel Art Auction — local artist Sylvia Lovell-Cooper recreated Toulouse Lautrec's Paris with her life-size figures.

MORLEY BAER'S black-and-white photo, "Kiva, Ildeponse, New Mexico," was the perfect contrast for the colorful Parisian costumes of Denise St. Angelo-Stiles and Judy Higginson, both on the committee for the Carmel Art Auction.

said, "Joyce Goldstein is driving the event. She's a dynamo and has so much energy."

CHILD'S PLAY

DO YOU yawn at the symphony? Do your legs want to get up and dance if you sit too long in a boring movie? If you crave a change of pace, here are two suggestions, both approved for children, that are guaranteed to be out of the ordinary.

How To Eat Like A Child and other lessons in not being grownup, based on a book by Delia Ephron, will strike a chord with adults and children. "How to torture your sister," "how to stay home from school," and other tricks of the trade for kids are explored in this fast-paced show. Staged at Cherry Hall, How To Eat Like A Child, opened Friday, Oct. 12 and will run on weekends with the final performance scheduled for Oct. 28. Call 649-3479 for information.

THE YELLOW brick road leads to Tassajara these days. The Jamesburg Players have surfaced again, and will be presenting The Wizard of Oz at the Jamesburg School on Sundays beginning Oct. 21 and continuing through Nov. 25. Call 659-2476 for information.

HERON COMES HOME TO ROOST

IT SEEMED fitting that a public viewing of the Herbert Heron collection should coincide with the announcement of the establishment of Library Foundation Book Program. Poet-actor-politician Herbert Heron amassed an impressive collection of books, photographs and correspondence with his Carmelite friends, and in doing so chronicled the artist's life in Carmel during the early 1900s.

A librarian's delight — a packed house — attended the first public showing of the Heron Collection.

The event was presented by the City of Carmel, Harrison Memorial Library Board of Trustees, Friends of the Harrison Memorial Library and Carmel Heritage.

Spotted in the SRO audience were Pacific Grove author Randy Reinstedt and his wife Debbie, photographer and impresario Cole

BIG SUR AND ALL THAT JAZZ

WHAT A jazz buff friend described as "a pleasant afternoon at the River Inn with a big band playing German charts," was really Oktoberfest, held last weekend to benefit the Big Sur Fire House building fund. The band called itself Der Hofbrau Schtöckers and looked suspiciously like Jack Stock's regulars, (even if they were wearing lederhosen). Arts and crafts, German food, steins of beer and a few politicians on the stump rounded out the day.

NOT TOO many know just how old Bruce Ariss really is, but he celebrated his birthday Sunday at Nepenthe in Big Sur at the latest Ariss fund-raiser.

Bruce's favorite, devil's food cake, was dressed up to resemble a framed and frosted Ariss version of the Big Sur coast. And there were 80, (or was it 79?) candles.

Holly Fassett, manager of Nepenthe, and daughter of Bill, opened the doors to the kind of revelry that is legendary "down the coast."

CECIL WAHLE, president of the Friends of Harrison Memorial Library, welcomed the SRO crowd at the Park Branch for the Heron collection.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

More than 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

BUSINESS BEAT

By David Leland

Get Scrooged!

FAR BE it from me to pass judgment upon the Carmel Business Association, but the anemic turnout at this month's general membership meeting at La Playa Hotel was astounding, considering the topic: Christmas.

It's no secret that business in Carmel, following suit with the rest of the country, is down. It's also no secret that a handful of people are working their you-know-whats off to combat that problem.

With that in mind, it was kind of pitiful watching Gary Luce, who heads up the economic development subcommittee, pitch his ideas to a mere handful of merchants.

"We need to create a festive atmosphere," he said. "We need to do a heck of a lot more than we've done in the past. We're still getting a lot of apathy."

No kidding.

Sure, merchants are busy — it's more than a full-time job running a small business. But businesspeople can't blame the City of Carmel for everything.

The CBA has a long-range plan for promoting itself during December. This year they are asking merchants to decorate the trees in front of their shops and to decorate their windows.

Once Carmel regains its "fairytale" setting, then it will be time for an advertising blitz. The message is simple: why spend money bringing folks to Carmel if there's no spirit?

At any rate, during the next CBA meeting, scheduled for 8 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 1, all of the subcommittees for the CBA board will be giving progress reports.

Other CBA tidbits...Former Pebble Beach Co. whiz Karen Hunter has joined the CBA and is now in charge of fund-raising.

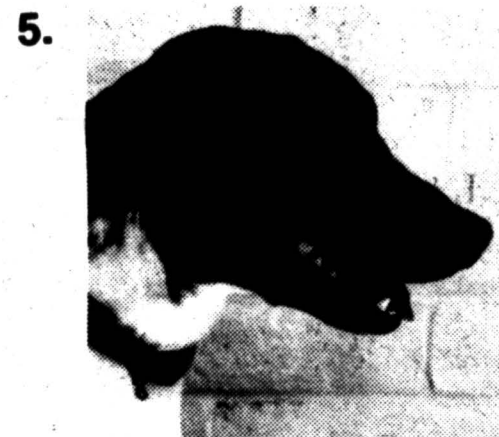

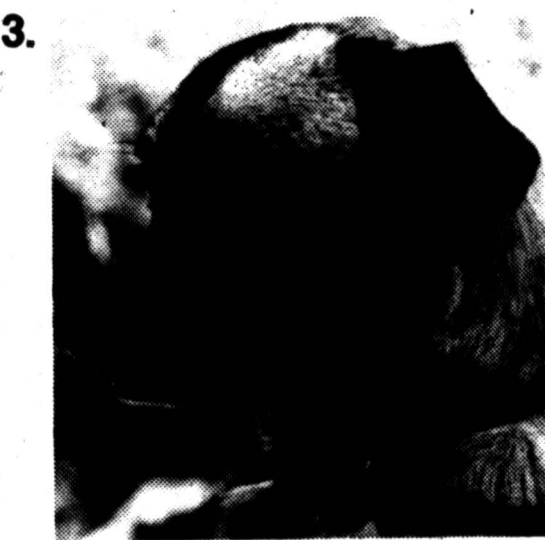

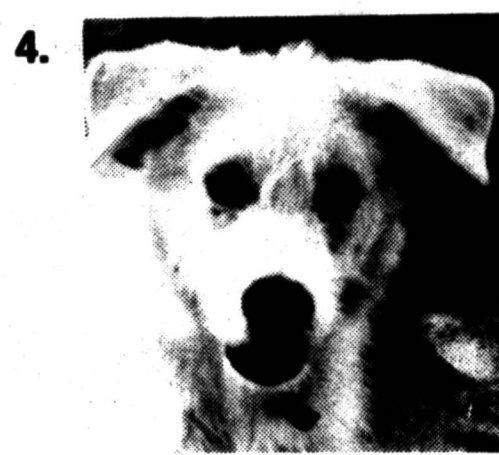

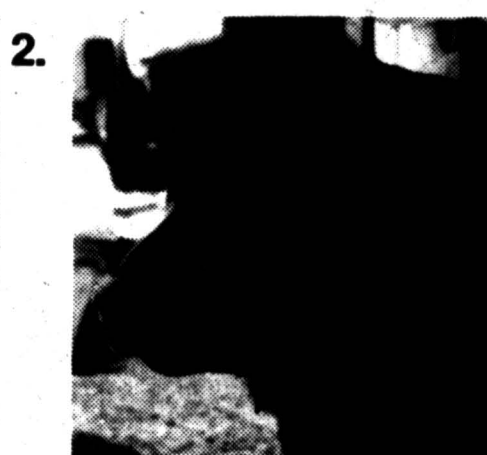

Hunter's first sojourn into the world of Carmel politics is to get a two-day affair, tentatively known as "Celebrate Carmel," approved by the city council.

The potential problem: the closing of a portion of Ocean Avenue. Hunter is looking toward next April as a possible date for the event, which will feature arts, music, local history and wine tasting.

Speakers will include Dr. Don King, Salinas pediatrician; Bob Sageman, retired president of AT&T; Dr. Norman Nelson, OB/GYN; and Cliff Weisner, executive director of insurance services for Monterey County Schools.

Film group shows 'Sand & Blood'

The Monterey Institute International Film Series will screen the 1988 release from France, Sand & Blood.

Sand & Blood tells of a friendship between two men - a gifted matador seeking to escape the misery of poverty, and a cultivated doctor and musician. With the spectacular landscapes of Southern France as her backdrop, director Jeanne Labrune uses the mystique of bullfighting as a stepping stone to broader issues: the nature of courage and friendship, the haunted past of Spain, and a far-reaching examination of masculine roles.

The film will be shown with subtitles and is screened Friday through Sunday, Oct. 19-21.

It begins at 8:15 p.m. in the Morse Auditorium at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. Admission is $4 general, $3 for students and senior citizens. For information, call 626-1730.

MISSION RANCH JUNIOR TENNIS CONTINGENT TRIUMPHANT IN SARATOGA TOURNAMENT

John Monnier, coach and occasional chaperone of Carmel Mission Ranch-based junior tennis players, shepherded several of his proteges through a successful campaign at the Northern California Tennis Association-sanctioned Gerry Andrews Memorial Tournament played in Saratoga.

Six of Monnier's netsters made it through the first weekend of the two-weekend affair which drew a multitude of players from throughout Northern California, and was obviously well populated by local Santa Clara County players. The second weekend began with quarter-finals action and culminated with the finals on Sept. 30th. Two local area teenagers emerged triumphant over their peers and returned to the peninsula with trophies in hand.

Kelley Sweeney of Carmel, seeded third in the girls 14-and-under, unleashed her powerful baseline game and captured her third consecutive tournament in that division. In the semi-finals she encountered opposition in the person of Karen Apra from Fremont, handily disposing of her by scores of 6-4 & 6-4. In the finals it was second seeded Ashley Ferhto falling to Sweeney by scores of 6-1 and 6-4.

The other local winner also occurred in the 14-year-old-and-under division, only this was on the masculine side of the draw. Chris Chatham of Pebble Beach proved worthy of his number one seeding by posting straight set victories in both the semis and the finals. In the semis it was Orinda-ite Frank Castle, who found himself on the short end of a 6-3 and 7-6 score; in the finals it was Jonathan Ching of Hillsborough meeting his demise through the strings of Chatham's rackets, 6-4 and 6-2.

Others who made the trip north with John Monnier and fared well in the tournament, although not as well as either Sweeney or Chatham, included Justin Ledzinski competing in the Boys 16-and-Under and losing in a hard-fought semi-finals to eventual winner Vijay Toke of Walnut Creek, the scores were 6-3, 5-7 & 6-4; Max Visnapuu of Pebble Beach competed in the Boys 14 and under losing in the quarters to the aforementioned Jonathan Ching; Matt Chatham of Pebble Beach, playing in the Boys 12-and-under, also advanced to the quarter-finals, as did Carmel resident Nicholas Garrone.

The above six are just a few of the troupe of local tennis juniors calling the Mission Tennis Ranch their tennis home. For more information on junior tennis at Mission Ranch please contact Jeff Doyle at 624-4335.

BUDDY PROGRAM ELECTS OFFICERS

The Buddy Program has been in existence on the Monterey Peninsula for 19 years and is a member of the local United Way. Its mission is to promote the development of positive self-esteem in children who do not have the benefit of guidance and support from both parents.

LEGAL SERVICES FOR SENIORS RELOCATES MONTEREY PENINSULA OFFICE

City Council of Monterey: Ruth Vreeland.
Mayor of Pacific Grove: Florence Schaefer.
City Council of Pacific Grove: Robert Davis, Bud Nunn.
Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District Board, Ward V: Zed Leavy.

Questionnaires were sent to candidates for: city council in Monterey and Pacific Grove; mayor in Pacific Grove, Marina and Seaside; and the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District Board, Ward V. No endorsements were made in the Marina or Seaside races because responses were not received from these candidates. However, the great majority of candidates returned answers and the chapter will be thanking each of them not only for taking the time to do this but for making the considerable commitment necessary to run for public office, said Clayton Anderson, club representative.

In the Monterey council race, Ruth Vreeland has a proven track record of environmental support and was a clear choice for endorsement, said Anderson. Don Edgren and Rick Heuer were judged to be equally concerned with the environment and qualified for the job. There was not sufficient distinction between the two to warrant endorsement of one over the other, he added.

VISTA volunteers receive pre-service training before joining the agency and on-the-job training thereafter if required. Volunteers receive a monthly subsistence allowance and upon completion of assignment, a $75 stipend is paid for each month of service. VISTA allowances do not reduce the Social Security or welfare benefits being received at the time the service begins.

VISTA volunteers with Peninsula Outreach will work a flexible schedule to develop a program to serve the needs of homeless children; to expand and mobilize food resources; to establish a volunteer program for the agency, and, to assist in the public relations/development efforts of the agency.

In September 1987 the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department began a program to benefit senior citizens of the community in two ways.

First, senior citizens who live alone and are often "shut-in" their residences with little or no contact with friends or relatives, can be provided with the security of knowing that someone does truly care about their welfare. Also, those concerned with their physical well-being will have someone to check on them daily.

Second, seniors interested in participating in some type of community program will be able to work with those in their own peer group by volunteering to place these daily telephone calls to the recipients of the program.

Currently, the department has a full staff of volunteers, however, anyone wishing to be placed on an alternate list to fill in when another caller is unable to make it or is away on vacation, is encouraged to call for information.

Anyone living alone, whether concerned about their health or not, and all those seniors wishing to make new friends or just have the opportunity to talk with someone new each day is encouraged to participate in this program.

The Irish and God

From the Oct. 21, 1982
Carmel Pine Cone

In Ireland no matter whatever the conversation we are never very far away from a reference to almighty God. If it is raining violently we hear "It's a nice, soft day - thanks be to God." When we sneeze we do not hear "Gesundheit" but "God and Mary be with you." Saints Patrick, Bridget, Columba and Colmcille are standing by as reinforcements. These pious invocations are a real part of Gaelic culture.

Here is a translation of an old Celtic blessing: "May this food comfort us in mind and body. Should a poor unfortunate traveler be on the road hungry and thirsty, may the good Lord lead him straight to us that we may share our food and drink with him as God shares all good things with us."

Mary and Muir has been anglicized into "Wisha." This expression is often heard: "Dia is Muir dhint." "God and Mary be with you."

Now thanks be to God, but that's a cute reply and we all know that cute is Irish for clever. Amen.

Public star party planned

Amateur astronomers with the Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy (MIRA) will present a public star party from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 20 at the Cypress Community Church, Highway 68 and Corral de Tierra Road.

The planet Saturn will be shining in the constellation Sagittarius at dusk. The Orionid Meteor Shower will reach its peak activity later that night. Meteor showers are notoriously unpredictable, but the group may see meteors streaking across the sky, the brightest glowing green, orange or red. Later, Mars will make an impressive sight as it makes its closest approach to earth until after the year 2,000.

Individuals and families are invited to come and look through a variety of small telescopes to view these and other marvels of the heavens such as double stars, globular clusters and galaxies. There is no charge.

If it is cloudy or foggy, the star party will be cancelled. To check if the star party will be held, call 375-3220 after 6 p.m. on Saturday.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Each year more Social Security recipients are turning to an optional way of receiving their monthly benefits - direct deposit into their bank accounts. This electronic method of crediting the monthly amount was first offered by the Government in 1974. Now, about half of all recipients choose this method in place of the traditional mailed checks. A study by the United States General Accounting Office (GAO) found another advantage: less chance of the benefit money going astray. The GAO said mailed checks get lost at the rate of one in 1,087, but direct deposits fall to show up only once in 8,794 payments.

Poetry, architecture keynoted during weekend Robinson Jeffers Festival

POETRY, architecture and conservation will be the chief themes of October Festival 1990, the annual offering of the Tor House Foundation.

Its three days of events include book signings, seminars, a gala banquet and morning poetry walk.

ARTS & LEISURE

Poet Robinson Jeffers and his works are the uniting threads in this festival, set Friday through Sunday, Oct. 19-21 at various sites in Carmel.

Opening event for the annual festival will be a book signing by the participating authors. Admission is free to the reception, set 5 to 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 19 at the Thunderbird Bookshop in the Barnyard, Carmel. Scheduled to participate are Robert J. Brophy, Robert Kafka and James Karman, who are now preparing an edition of Jeffers' collected letters for Stanford University Press.

Brophy is the author of Robinson Jeffers: Myth, Ritual and Symbol. Kafka edited The Love Letters of Robinson and Una Jeffers, and Karman wrote the Jeffers biography, Poet of California. He also edited Critical Essays on Robinson Jeffers.

These scholars can be heard at 10 a.m. Saturday when they serve on a panel highlighting "The Letters of Robinson and Una Jeffers." The seminar is set 10 a.m. to noon in Carpenter Hall, Sunset Center, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. Admission is $10.

From 2 to 4 p.m., Jeffers enthusiasts can attend a second seminar, also in Carpenter Hall. Marcia Kuster Rider, daughter of Carmel figure Edward Kuster, will discuss "Edward Kuster and the Jeffers Family." Sculptor Gordon Newell will offer "Some Reminiscences" on Jeffers, the stone mason of Carmel Point. Admission to this seminar is also $10.

The subjects of architecture and environment figured significantly in Robinson Jeffers' poetry. This concern was tangibly manifest in the building and landscaping of Tor House, his home on Carmel Point. Jeffers' Tor House represented a fusion of poetry and architecture deriving from PAUL GOLDBERGER, Pulitzer-Prize winning architecture critic for the New York Times, will speak at the annual Jeffers banquet.

The gala is set Saturday, Oct. 20 at La Playa Hotel in Carmel. For reservations, call 624-1813.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Development of jazz

DIAL DATA: KUSP (88.9 FM) offers real richness if you're fascinated by jazz history. Tune in The Miles Davis Project at nine o'clock Thursday night (10/18).

The series — five more installments after that evening's — comes from American Public Radio. Miles, Art Blakey, Clark Terry, Dizzy Gillespie, Wayne Shorter — these major players "and others" guide listeners "through an exploration of the issues that have surrounded the development of jazz through each major phase since 1944." So says the KUSP program note.

The shows use Miles as a focal point. Discussions take on musical evolution, the nature of creativity, social contexts round each period. "Rare unheard tape" and many anecdotes also play strong roles, KUSP adds.

"The two-hour special at the end of the series will be drawn from a collection of live recordings made on tour with Miles this past year as well as from some very rare recordings from each of Davis's historic periods — '50s, '60s, '70s."

Same station announces that the National Public Radio show called Bluestage starts at four o'clock on the afternoon of Nov. 4. This "takes listeners on a weekly hour-long journey to top music clubs for some of the best live blues, soul, and zydeco performances" throughout the country. Great singer Ruth Brown serves as hostess. KUSP Production Director Larry Blood's remote broadcast crew contributed tapes of Monterey Bay Area performances to the series.

KAZU Public Radio (90.3FM) next week will air material recorded by its hard-working team at the last Monterey Bay Blues Festival. Three shows: Wednesday afternoon (10/24) and 1-4; Friday (10/26) from 9-noon and 9-midnight. Interviews as well as good music. The station's Blues Bunch on that scene: Orange Cleghorn, Sherman Lee, Rockin' Ralph.

(Blues Fest insiders tell me that Lou Rudolph and Bostrum Event Management have parted company. So the annual bash has begun a search process to name its new administrator. More on this later.)

KUUMBWA CENTER of Santa Cruz presents something quite special on Friday evening (10/19) as part of its month-long 15th anniversary series. Reel Music brings forth jazz film collector Mark Cantor. His commentary accompanies interview and performance footage featuring Bird Parker, John Coltrane, Julian Adderley, Eric Dolphy, Art Blakey, many other giants. Just $8 per; call 1-427-2227 for reservations and start time.

Kuumbwa's Monday night band (10/22) — The Meeting with Patrice Rushen, Ernie Watts, Ndugu Chanler, Alphonso Johnson. Hot contemporary jazz. Keyboardist Patrice came up through the Monterey Jazz Festival student system years ago. Shows at 7:30 and 9:30; $14 apiece; Center Stage Ticketing.

MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin

An unusual first

THE MONTEREY County Symphony opened its 45th season with a truly unusual first in its musical history. An entire program of Danish music highlighted by the world premiere of the "Concertante for Flute, Bassoon and Orchestra" by Sven Erik Werner, a work commissioned by the Danish government especially for this event, was certainly innovative and forward looking. With the choice of almost completely unfamiliar music (probably not one of the musicians has played more than one of the pieces anywhere before), the orchestra and Maestro Suttle's capabilities underwent a stringent test and happily they all proved themselves very ably, competently and eminently satisfactorily in their task.

After the playing of the national anthems of the United States and Denmark, the concert began with the overture to the opera "Aladdin" by C.F.E. Horneman, a late 19th century composer and music publisher. Musically educated in Leipzig, his thoroughly delightful and very Mendelssohnian composition, though obviously derivative, was pleasing to listen to. The themes are engaging and the mysterious scurrings and lighthearted climaxes added to its charm. Demanding precision and crisp execution, that is exactly what the musicians delivered to fine effect.

Flutist Lena Nielsen and bassoonist Karen Lasen were the very skillful and professional soloists in the "Concertante" which is subtitled "Toil and Trouble," a line taken from the Witches' Scene in "Macbeth." It calls for a large modern orchestra which is fortunately seldom utilized en masse since the soloist could not possibly surmount such an avalanche of sound.

This is distinctly programmatic music, geared to evoke and stimulate the mind and create imagery. There are mists and bubbling cauldrons to be heard along with many twittering birds. There isn't much melody after the almost pop tune heard rather early on in the piece. The music is complicated and difficult for all involved and the soloists were impressive. Miss Nielsen, utilizing three sizes of flute, was agile and versatile. Miss Lasen's bassoon tone was large and well rounded. The complex and involved rhythmic structure and the sectional tuttis were clearly rendered. An extended duo cadenza (I assume it was supposed to be a cadenza) was excellently accomplished. Actually, the music said little to me, but at least it did it gently and neatly and in not too tortured a modern idiom.

On the other hand, Carl Nielsen's "Symphony No. 4" (The Inextinguishable) op. 29, which he composed during World War I, conveyed a great deal of meaning and with much depth of feeling. Nielsen's credo as expressed in the title was that "music is life and like life is inextinguishable." The writing is post-romantic and highly passionate. The harmonic language is vivid without being overly dissonant and the net result is an exciting symphonic statement that can bear rehearing.

For the conductor and the orchestra this is a monumentally challenging work. Familiar repertoire is a lot easier to come to grips with. This music had to be learned and its difficulties are easily apparent. There are totally exposed string section virtuoso passages that would be disastrous if not cleanly played and they were traversed very well. The lovely woodwind "trio" of the second movement was superbly expounded by the entire section, with a particular appreciation of the work of oboist Bennie Cottone, while the brasses often tended to be raucous when they were blowing full out, they were generally in fine fettle the rest of the time.

The music proceeds in waves of tone and Suttle was in full control, guiding his forces firmly and with strong rhythmic drive. The thread of hope that runs through the work, even when it is at its most powerful as in the last movement's huge build-up complete with two opposing tympanists thundering away, was powerfully expressed. The 4th Symphony is accessible music for all its unfamiliarity and it made a fine finale for a very interesting musical afternoon.

THE DASHLAND Canal Aqueduct, where the canal crosses the rapids, is among the places explored in Stan La Rue's Amazing Sweden. This is the first offering in the World Traveler film Series and plays at both 2 and 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 19 in Sunset Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. For details call 624-3996.

Producer will narrate his travel film on Sweden

FIRST OFFERING in the World Traveler Film Series is Amazing Sweden. The color motion picture travelogue will be narrated in person by filmmaker Stan La Rue. Showtime is both 2 and 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 19 in Sunset Theater, located on San Carlos at Ninth Avenue in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Sweden, largest of the Scandinavian countries, has a standard of living which ranks among the highest in the world. Renowned for its social reforms and ability to remain at peace in a troubled world, the country is home to the seaport of Gothenburg on the west coast and its attractive capital city of Stockholm on the east coast. Connecting these important centers is the 150-year-old Gota Canal which cuts through the heart of the country and provides an intimate cruise through Swedish history, its major lakes, and a variety of scenery. Apparent in the central folklore districts, historic traditions are still very much alive.

Sweden offers much more. Truly, there is something for everyone. It is a country of great contrasts. It displays a blend of the history-laden old dating back to the days of the Viking settlers and the fresh, sleek modern of the latter 20th century. The country is blessed with fertile southern farmlands, vast forests of birch and evergreens, countless lakes, a multitude of delightful streams and rivers, fine sandy beaches warmed by the Gulf Stream, rugged and indented coastlines with island-studded offshore archipelagos.

Stan La Rue explores the wonders of Sweden from its southern tip on the Baltic Sea to the civilized wilderness of Lapland in the north. He has been producing travel adventure films for more than 25 years, always in search of the beautiful, interesting and unusual.

Sunset Theater is located at Ninth and San Carlos in Carmel. Box office will open at 1 p.m. with the matinee to be shown at 2 p.m. Tickets are $5 and are available prior to the film showing at the director's office. Evening box office will open at 7 p.m. for the 8 p.m. film showing. Inquiries may be directed to the director's office weekdays 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joan Swartz Paonessa

Original musical a clear success

THE MULTIPLEX challenges and payoffs of musical theater are profoundly well-known to those of us who have worked in this exciting milieu. So, it is with pure respect and a clear regard for the chutzpah of the participants that I approach any endeavor in this adventuresome realm. Add to the usual complexities one's own book and music, as have the creators of Aesop and the Brothers Grimm, and the potential complications (along with the ultimate rewards) become legion. One must devise one's own road to the promised land which lies at the end of an arduous map of the music taught, choreography drilled, lines rehearsed, costumes built, scenery dreamed and realized, numbers written, revised and arranged.

It is, therefore, a real pleasure to be able to report that this difficult endeavor has been a distinct success for Angelo DiGirolamo's Wharf Theatre Company.

Aesop and the Brothers Grimm is an original family musical written by Cassy Reed, Renata Yundt, George C. Larsen and Barney Hulse. Hulse composed most of the music with a few exceptions, noted later; it's lively, fun stuff, and it works ... spontaneous, too, as is the feeling of the whole show. The best of theatrical performances possess this quality of being the invention of the moment. It's a tough quality to achieve, let alone sustain, and credit must go to directors, Hulse and Reed for this accomplishment.

Alicia Terrazas is a dynamic young singer who projects well as Liz, the girlish dreamer who imagines the whole scenario which unites the Brothers Grimm, Aesop, and several of the characters who populate their tales and fables. It's a lively, entertaining mix of morals and ideals with plenty of silliness and hijinks. The energy level is consistently popping, and there is a nice balance maintained between child and adult talent.

Vincente J. Salazar (Wilhelm Grimm/Lion) and Keith Wolhart (Aesop) are blessed with fine voices and these blend well in "Sure and Steady" (lyrics by Salazar) and "The Dog and His Bone," the latter composed by David Lewis. Tom Dobbin plays an interestingly self-centered Jacob Grimm. Cassy Reed makes a great Wicked Witch, abetted in her somewhat ineffectual attempts at spelling by a schmoozy puppet and the vampy Olga Legan as "Bad Conscience." In the dual role of Hare/Sleeping Beauty, Denise Terrazas shows strong comic acting and singing abilities. Her identity-crisis-reflective solo, "Who am I?" is a highlight.

Jester/Prince More Charming is nimbly and smoothly portrayed by David McMillen, while his rival for Sleeping Beauty is played with humor, style and close attention to his character's revolting personal habits by Donovan Dolan. Phyllis McChesney is a grand La La Fairy and is credited (along with McMillen) with the lyrics to their duet, "Just Say It." As Rapunzel, Victoria Ledesma screeches her way several miles past the heart of Flatbush, and then turns around to belt a great, "If It Works" (written by Jim Gonzales).

Gretchen Zwinge is a lovable Tortoise, while Cira Sims and Aimee Steele are charming as the handmaidens longing for a little oneupmanship in "Second to One." The adorable littlest villagers: Mouse, Hard Hat, Festival Queen, and Hunter, are portrayed by Tira Sims, Aric Clark, Clarice Clark and Justin McChesney.

Other outstanding solo numbers are "Sleeping Beauty Waltz," sung by D. Terrazas, who also wrote the lyrics, and the lovely "Nobody Listens," delivered beautifully by Keith Wolhart.

The oft-mentioned orchestra consists of musical director, Barney Hulse, who performs with his usual pianistic aplomb and raffish style! Hulse always manages to make it look easy. Garret Gould's lighting design is well-conceived and works just fine. The tiddly-winkish, bubbly set is the creation of Renata Yundt and Scott Ranier. Cassy Reed has created some amusing choreography, and generally keeps things flowing smoothly. The bright and zingy costumes are attributed to V. Ledesma, the cast, D. Terrazas, Lady Ramirez and Renata Yundt. Love the frog!

Aesop and the Brothers Grimm is a successful, well-executed musical fable. Take the family to see this one. The kids will enjoy its music and movement, its briskness and color, and there are enough tongue-in-cheek touches to keep adults amused without condescension to the youngsters. But hurry if you want to catch it; only two more weekends at the Wharf Theater in Monterey, Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m., Sundays at 5:30 p.m., through October 28.

Jazz Festival posters shown

"All That Jazz," an exhibition of Monterey Jazz Festival posters, can be viewed at the Monterey Airport Gallery in celebration of the 33rd birthday of the world-famous jazz festival.

The show, assembled from posters in local private collections, features the work of artists and designers who each year have interpreted and heralded the event in their own way.

Among these are Earl Newman's 1974 silk-screened saxophone player, Eldon Dedini's 1964 "Dizzy for President" poster, and Batista Moon Studios' color photo posters for 1980, 1982 and '84.

The show is presented by the Art-at-the-Airport program in cooperation with Colton Hall Museum, the Monterey City Cultural Arts Commission and the Monterey Jazz Festival. The show continues through Oct. 28. Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Free workshops augment breast health awareness

The lectures include instruction on breast self-examination, information on mammography and a video.

A class is set for Thursday, Oct. 25, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Monterey Peninsula College in the Medical Assisting Lab-Life Sciences, Room 206. Participants are encouraged to bring their lunch. Refreshments will be served. The program is free to the public.

SUSANNAH McCORKLE'S latest album for Concord Records heightens first impressions of her as a vocalist of excellent taste and true smarts (CCD-4418). The 11 tracks all come from a Brazilian baseline and include the first American lyrics (so far as I know) of the superlative song entitled Summer by Bruno Brighetti and Bruno Martino.

Miss McCorkle chooses things from the classic bossa nova writers — Jobim, Lobo, Barque, Mendes, Bonfá, Barroso, others. And she renders them with the warmth and tangy sweetness so particular to that land's musical lore. Tenorman Scott Hamilton and Brazilian percussionists provide first-rate support. The singer contributes some bright lyrics.

MIKE DUFFY is among the Monterey Bay Artists' Day participants who created a kinetic sculpture for the "Mobile Masterpiece Race." The race, just one part of Artists' Day activities, begins Saturday afternoon at the Monterey Peninsula College Arts Complex.

First Monterey Bay Artists' Day encompasses myriad happenings

A CONSORTIUM of Monterey Bay visual arts organizations present a day of celebration, stimulation and challenge for local artists on Saturday, Oct. 20.

This first event is planned by local arts organizations, including the Monterey Peninsula College Art Department, the Monterey County Cultural Council, Artists Equity Central Coast Chapter, Monterey Peninsula Art Foundation, Cherry Foundation, Pacific Grove Art Center, Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, the Seaside Art Commission, the Cultural Council of Santa Cruz County, Central Coast Art Association and Women's Caucus for Art.

Most of the activities of this day will be centered around the Monterey Peninsula College Arts complex and will include workshops, speakers, discussion and such light-hearted projects as an Artists' Soap Box Derby (subtitled: Kinetic Sculpture or Mobile Masterpiece Race), this could be an interesting contrast to the Indy races also being held that weekend at Laguna Seca.

The events of the day will begin with a morning workshop on the serious subject of "Health and Safety in the Art Media," conducted by Monona Rossol, author of the book The Artist's Complete Health and Safety Guide and president/founder of the New York based organization Arts, Crafts and Theater Safety (ACTS). Rossol also has a background in cabaret theater which enables her to blend entertainment with serious information in her workshops.

Participants in the day's events are urged to bring a brown bag lunch so they can enjoy the Art Fair atmosphere of the early afternoon which will offer a variety of activities: discussions, demonstrations and displays, art videos and, of course, the Kinetic Sculpture Race with prizes donated by the Hyatt Hotel Monterey.

At 3:30 p.m. that afternoon, the principal speaker, Jim Schietinger, a sculptor, technical consultant, and art professor at James Milliken University in Decatur, Illinois, will hold a workshop and discuss the collaborative process he has undertaken with some of our most innovative contemporary artists. Schietinger has worked with artists such as Linda Benglis, John Chamberlain and Robert Rauschenberg who seek his combination of technical expertise and creative sensitivity to develop their ideas for sculptural projects in the ceramic medium.

Finally the day will end with a reception from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn Resort Monterey. This reception has been planned to acknowledge innovative arts legislation which originated in California's Legislative Committee on the Arts, chaired by Assemblyman Sam Farr and Senator Henry Mello. Assemblyman Farr will attend the reception, as will Paul Minicucci, who serves as the legislative assistant to this committee.

The registration fee of $25 covers all of the events of the day and should be sent to the Monterey County Cultural Council, Box 246, Salinas, CA 93902, with a check payable to Artists' Day. Tickets can also be purchased at the door.

For further information call 375-2208.

KEYNOTE speaker will be Z. Budapest, president of the Women's Spirituality Forum.

Festival of the Goddess celebrates arts, spirituality

WOMEN AND men alike are invited to celebrate many aspects of earth spirituality during the second annual Festival of the Goddess. The festival is set Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 20-21, at Monterey Peninsula College, 980 Fremont St., Monterey.

More than 50 artisans and craftspeople will be represented at the multi-faceted event, headquartered in the student center on campus. Jewelry, crystals, clothing, healing modalities, as well as ceremonial and symbolic objects of art will be represented.

Live entertainment will punctuate the festival, ranging from bellydance troupes to performances by the band, The Naked Eye.

Keynote speaker at 3 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday will be Z. Budapest, who founded the Women's Spirituality Forum in 1986. This non-profit organization is based in Oakland and is dedicated to bringing women's spirituality to the forefront of feminist consciousness.

Budapest also calls herself "The Good Witch of the West," and is the author of The Holy Book of Women's Mysteries and The Grandmother of Time. She will sign copies of her books at 4 p.m. Sunday. Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles awarded her a special certificate of thanks for her participation in organizing the "Take Back the Night" marches against rape.

Festival hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. The festival is co-sponsored by The Divine Feminine, a Monterey gallery; and the Sisters of Neferiti, a national, non-profit society.

Admission is $3. For more information, call 373-2113.

Youthful pianist performs classical program at benefit

AT 4 P.M. on Sunday, Oct. 21, 13-year-old pianist Teresa Ann Kang will appear in a solo piano recital at the Monterey Church of Religious Science, 400 W. Franklin St. in Monterey. King is substituting at two weeks notice for the ailing flutist Ray Febrizio, originally scheduled for this date.

Born of Korean parents in Tacoma, Wash. Teresa Ann Kang began studying piano at age 4, and made her first public performance at age 6. She is a motivated student with a natural flair for playing the piano and precocious gifts which permit her to learn quickly an enormous amount of the piano repertoire. She was one of the winners in the 1990 Grand Piano Young Artist Competition in Palo Alto and as a result of this victory will be appearing in a televised recital on local PBS stations in the San Francisco Bay Area in 1991. She is a student at San Carlos School in Monterey, where she is president of the student body. For the past three years she has been studying piano with Lyn Bronson of Carmel.

This concert is a benefit to promote public awareness of the fund-raising effort now under way to help the Church of Religious Science purchase a vintage Steinway grand piano which has been stored in the Church for the past few years. The seven-foot Steinway grand piano, originally built in 1908, was restored by its former owner, the late Bud Iverson of Pacific Grove, who died earlier this year. The instrument is valued at $16,000, and, approximately $6,000 has already been raised by Lyn and Renee Bronson. A series of benefit concerts has been scheduled during the coming season, of which this recital is the second in the series.

Kang will present a program consisting of Bach's Prelude and Fugue in D Minor, Beethoven's Thirty-Two Variations in C minor, two scenes from Prokofiev's Romeo and Juliet, Franz Liszt's Un Sospiro and Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11 and ending with two Nocturnes, Op. 27 and the G Minor Ballade by Chopin.

Admission will be by tax-deductible donation of $10 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Tickets are available at Center Stage Ticketing in downtown Monterey by calling 649-5561 or at the Church of Religious Science on the afternoon of the recital.

For further information, call the Monterey Church of Religious Science at 372-7326.

Molestation survivors meet

A new group is now forming for adult women molested as children. The therapy group is led by Judy Masliyah and Kathy Weller.

For further information, call 649-3326.

Sheriff's Teddy Bear Campaign underway

For the sixth year, Sheriff "Bud" Cook is collecting teddy bears to donate to needy children at Christmas and to also support the Sun Street Center Christmas Party for children.

In past years, parents have cleaned out their toy boxes to donate to this program. Older children have searched their rooms to fine unused toys which they can give to less fortunate families.

Collection points for teddy bears and other toys are the Sheriff's sub-station, 1200 Agujito Road, in the Monterey Courthouse; and the Sheriff's office at 1414 Natividad Road, Salinas. If it is difficult for someone to make delivery, call 755-3950 and arrangements will be made for items to be picked up.

Crisis Line volunteers sought

Volunteers are needed to staff the crisis lines of the Suicide Prevention and Crisis Center of Monterey County.

Individuals who are calm, competent, good listeners and supportive will be trained during a 40-hour program.

After completing the training, volunteers are asked to donate a four-hour shift per week to the Suicide Prevention and Crisis Center for a period of one year.

For more information, call the office line, 375-6966, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Recovering women gather

Looking for ways to improve and enhance your self-esteem, short-cut painful experiences, establish boundaries in your life, or handle co-dependency issues?

The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula is sponsoring workshops every Friday until Nov. 30 to discuss these issues. Workshops will be lead by six local marriage and family therapists.

The workshops are set 7 to 9 p.m. at the YWCA, 801 Lighthouse Ave., Monterey. Space is limited and a donation is requested. For more information, call 649-0834.

Legal Services for Seniors moves

Legal Services for Seniors, a non-profit organization providing free legal services to low income seniors in Monterey County, has relocated its Monterey Peninsula office.

The office is now located at 413 Forest Ave. in Pacific Grove, in a restored Victorian home, one-half block up from Pine Avenue. Bus transportation will bring clients within a block of the office.

The new location will be open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and is staffed by four legal advocates. Appointments are necessary. For more information, call 372-3989.

YWCA's financial independence workshop

Do you worry about your financial future? Would you like to do a better job of managing your money?

The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula is sponsoring a seminar that combines psychology and professional financial planning techniques to show you how to build a secure financial future.

Eve Delunas, a licensed psychotherapist, will help you to identify the ways you limit your prosperity.

Sara Kilpatrick, a financial consultant, will discuss the essentials of prudent money management.

The workshop meets 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 3 at the Monterey Conference Center, One Portola Plaza, Monterey. Fee is $25 and space is limited. For reservations, call 649-0834.

MS conference call support group

A telephone support group for people homebound with Multiple Sclerosis will start on Nov. 2.

The group will be led by a trained peer counselor and will continue for six weeks. This program will enable homebound people to expand their world by reaching and supporting each other through conference calls.

Participants must go through the entire series, have a telephone and live in either Monterey, Santa Cruz or San Benito counties. There is no fee. Pre-registration is required.

The program is sponsored by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Northern California Chapter. To pre-register or for more information about this group or other services of the MS Society, call 1-800-FIGHT MS.

SPCA needs towels, linens

A plea to the general public is being made by the SPCA of Monterey County for clean towels, sheets, blankets and pillowcases for use in the animal shelter and wildlife center.

Blankets are used as comforters for the many puppies who are brought to the shelter because no one wants them. Prior to their being adopted, the shelter staff tries to make them as comfortable as possible and using blankets helps.

The greatest demand is for clean towels both in the shelter and in the wildlife center.

Donated items can be delivered to the SPCA animal shelter, 1002 Monterey-Salinas Highway 68 (across from Laguna Seca Recreation Area) any day of the week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. If the donor has a significant quantity and cannot deliver them to the shelter, arrangements can be made to pick them up.

Design a 'sculptural vehicle'

Imagine a field of multi-colored sculpture. Combine that with the festive pageantry of a soap box derby and the surrealism of an artists' Concours d'Elegance and you have the basic elements of the First Art Day Kinetic Soap Box Derby.

Art Day festival — a day-long array of programs, demonstrations and events focusing on the arts — encourages local artists to design moving sculpture for the Kinetic Soap Box Derby, set Saturday, Oct. 20 at Monterey Peninsula College.

Participants in the race/exhibit are invited to design sculptural vehicles which will be raced down a gentle incline, with winning works selected on artistic merit as well as speed.

Entries must be manned by the artist and cannot be motorized. Artwork must be able to roll and include at least minimum steering characteristics.

Awards will be given for the fastest sculpture. Artistic winners will be displayed in a local gallery following the contest.

Monterey County Artist's Day will include a workshop on health and safety in the arts media by Monona Rossol; a lecture and slide presentation by Jim Schietinger, videos, discussions, displays and a reception.

Entry for the Kinetic Sculpture Race is $20 and includes all of the day's events and the reception. Late registration is $25 at the door. For more information about the Kinetic Sculpture Race, call 624-7491. For information regarding Artday events, call 375-2208.
